

Nixon may testify in coverup trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, already a witness at the Watergate cover-up trial through his taped conversations, may be well enough soon to testify in person, his lawyer says.

Meanwhile, the electronic testimony continued today with a recording whose contents have never been disclosed.

Nixon's lawyer, Herbert J. Miller, told U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica Thursday that Nixon might be able to come before the judge in three weeks and "no longer raise the health issue."

Miller said that he would have a prognosis on Nixon's health in that time and that "I'm sure it will be favorable."

In San Clemente, Calif., however, Nixon's spokesman, former White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, said the former chief executive is "not very well," and that his left leg still is swollen with phlebitis.

Ziegler also said that Nixon's spirits were sagging as he waited to hear whether he would be called to testify at the trial of his former aides.

Nixon had been subpoenaed by John D. Ehrlichman, his former domestic counselor and a defendant at the criminal conspiracy trial along with H.R. Haldeman, John N. Mitchell, Kenneth W. Parkinson and Robert C. Mardian.

With former presidential counsel John W. Dean III on the witness stand for the third day, prosecutors planned to play a conversation of March 17, 1973, when Dean apparently held his first substantive Watergate discussions with Nixon.

In its transcripts of subpoenaed tapes last April, the Nixon White House released only a small portion of the 35-minute conversation dealing solely with the activities of political prankster Donald H. Segretti and the break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

The recording was one of 64 figuring in the Supreme Court's decision forcing Nixon to release the tapes for the cover-up trial. The ruling was one of the historic events that contributed to his resignation.

After receiving word from Miller about Nixon's possible appearance, Sirica postponed for three weeks a decision on whether the former President should be forced to testify at the trial.

The government, which also subpoenaed Nixon, told Sirica it would not insist on the former President's testimony in the prosecution case. Since the defense testimony is not expected to begin for more than a month, that gave the court time to make a decision.

Sirica asked lawyers to suggest a panel of medical experts to examine Nixon for the court, should the health claim be raised again. He said they also should decide who would pay, because "doctors aren't going to go out there for their health, you know."

Barring complications in the next 10 days, Nixon's lawyers said in an affidavit, the former President's doctor "is of the opinion that a deposition of Mr. Nixon at his home or at a short distance away ... would not present unacceptable risks to Mr. Nixon's health."

The judge, prosecutor and Ehrlichman's lawyers all said, however, they didn't want a deposition.

In a related matter, the Nixon lawyers asked for a restraining order against the Ford administration to prohibit officials from turning over any of some 42 million Nixon administration papers to anyone except the former President.

U.S. District Judge Charles R. Richey will hold a hearing on the matter Monday.

The jury, listening with headphones along with judge, defendants and spectators, heard two tape recordings Thursday — the first time any of the conversations had been played in public. A transcript was given to jurors to help follow the often difficult-to-hear voices.

The first tape was a conversation among Nixon, Haldeman and Dean on Sept. 15, 1972, when E. Howard Hunt, G. Gordon Liddy and the five men arrested in Democratic party headquarters were indicted.

The second was a conversation between Nixon special counsel Charles W. Colson and Hunt, recorded by Colson.

Transcripts of both conversations had been made public previously.

Wheelchair ramps installed

Church sets precedent

BY SANDY FOSSON
Record-Herald Staff Writer

The Grace United Methodist Church at the corner of Market and North streets has just recently set a precedent for the city of Washington C. H.

While the church installed new sidewalk along the front and sides of the building, it included three, new wheelchair ramps with the project.

The ramps were the brainchild of the church trustees and were designed to facilitate normal downtown travels for wheelchair-confined people.

The most pronounced ramp is located on the corner of North and Market streets at the front of the church. The other two sloped walks are located at the two alley driveways on the sides of the building.

According to city inspector Glenn Tatman, there are probably 25 wheelchair-confined persons in Fayette County, including Beverly Baer, 421 E. Market St., a member of the church's congregation.

Tatman said he hopes the installation will encourage others to follow suit. "The city is very appreciative of what the church has done and hopes it will entice others to do the same."

"We are hoping that anyone who does plan to build a new sidewalk in the downtown area will think ahead and install wheelchair ramps at his location as well," he added.

Tatman said eventually the city may have wheelchair ramps at each street corner but that city funds would have to determine any action in the future.

The ramps at the church were installed by the Great Oaks Construction Co., of Washington C. H., which poured the sidewalks with funds obtained through the church.

According to Tatman, the idea has perhaps already caught hold because J. O. Garringer, owner of Kaufman's Paint and Wallpaper Store, is installing a ramp at the new Kaufman's Decorating Centre, to be located at the corner of Court and Main streets.

Ford defends pardon timing

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's historic testimony on his pardon for former President Richard M. Nixon has drawn high praise from congressmen for candor, but sharp disagreement on whether he laid the pardon controversy to rest.

Ford assured a House Judiciary subcommittee and a nationwide television audience Thursday "there was no deal, period" for the pardon and said he is convinced he did not grant it too hastily.

Subcommittee members split afterwards on whether Ford's testimony settled the matter, and Chairman William L. Hungate, D-Mo., said the inquiry on the pardon may continue after Congress returns Nov. 18 from its election campaign recess.

Subcommittee Democrats called for more witnesses involved in the pardon consultations, including former White House chief of staff Alexander M. Haig Jr., Ford counsel Phillip Buchen and possibly outgoing special Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

Most Republicans agreed with Ford the subcommittee should end the inquiry so the country can "shift our attention from the pursuit of a fallen president to the pursuit of the urgent needs of a rising nation."

"This certainly should be the end of it," said Rep. Robert McClory, R-Ill., "It's time to lay off the President."

But Rep. Bella S. Abzug, D-N.Y., author of one of the formal resolutions of inquiry that Ford appeared to answer, said "this is just a beginning."

Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., contended Ford's testimony "raised more questions than it answered."

It was under Miss Holtzman's questioning, on how Ford could answer the "suspensions raised" in the public mind on whether the pardon was part of a deal, that Ford interrupted to make one of his major points.

"I want to assure you ... and the members of Congress and the American people that there was no deal, period, under no circumstances," he said.

Ford said the first mention ever made to him of a pardon for Nixon came from Haig during a meeting Aug. 1 — nine days before Nixon resigned — at which he said Haig also informed him of upcoming "devastating, even catastrophic" disclosures that might remove Nixon from office.

A Ford pardon for Nixon was one of six alternatives Haig listed, Ford testified. He said Haig did not advocate any of the options.

about to become president, and told Haig he would think about what to do overnight.

He said his decision was to do nothing and that he told Haig to make that clear to Nixon because he believed a vice president should take no action that could bring his own elevation to the presidency.

Ford said Haig gave him details on the upcoming "devastating" disclosures of White House tapes on which Nixon gave the go-ahead to try to curb the first FBI investigation into Nixon re-election money involvement in the Watergate burglary.

Ford testified that even though he knew those details he continued to say at press conferences the following weekend that he believed Nixon was innocent of any impeachable offense because he was afraid any change in that position "would lead in the press to conclusions that I now wanted to see the President resign."

Ford testified at the hearing that the House Judiciary Committee's vote of impeachment articles against Nixon was evidence of Nixon's guilt of obstruction of justice in the Watergate burglary. He also testified that Nixon's acceptance of the pardon according to a White House research memorandum

Solons work to override freedom of information veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — Key Democrats plan to press Congress to override President Ford's veto of what he brands an "unconstitutional and unworkable" bill to amend the Freedom of Information Act.

The bill, overturning a 1973 Supreme Court decision in a secrecy-stamping case and closing what the measure's authors call major loopholes in the law, could adversely affect intelligence secrets and diplomatic relations, Ford said as he vetoed it Thursday.

"The President is demonstrating an arrogance that would be believable if a man holding a mandate from the people occupied the office of the presidency. But it is unbelievable, almost incredible, arrogance for a man whose only mandate came from a single congressional district," said Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., who headed an 11-year drive for the Freedom of Information Act enacted in 1967.

The Supreme Court decided that a president could classify documents basically free of judicial review. This bill would give federal courts power to see if documents were properly classified.

Ford argued that this would mean courts would be allowed to make what amounts to "the initial classification decision in sensitive and complex areas where they have no expertise."

Moss, in a telephone interview from Sacramento, Calif., said, "I would rather trust the courts, and I think their action through the whole unhappy history of Watergate proves that we can place our confidence in the judicial system of this nation."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who headed Senate supporters of the legislation, termed Ford's veto "a distressing new example of the Watergate mentality that still pervades the White House." The bill is "a major effort by Congress to insure that the public's business is carried out in public," Kennedy added, saying he will work for a veto override.

Moss, predicting Congress will override the veto, said there is "no validity to the fears expressed by the President.... He is buying the old line of the intelligence and defense community that all information they have is sacrosanct."

Armco contributes $6,631

Community Chest hits 43 per cent of goal

The 1975 Community Chest campaign has reached 43 per cent of its established goal, according to figures released by the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce today.

Pam Landrum, of the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce, secretary-treasurer of this year's Community Chest campaign, announced today that $12,317.65 has been received or pledged toward the 1975 goal of $28,000. To date, the $12,000 figure represents 43 per cent of the goal.

MISS LANDRUM stated that the receipts to date included a mixture of business, industry, employee groups and residential contributions.

She said the largest amount received to date was a $6,631 contribution from the Armco Steel Corporation's Metal Products Division in Washington C.H.

Of the $6,631 amount contributed by the Armco Steel Corp., $1,800 represents the company's contributions, and $4,831 represents the contributions from the plant's 529 employees.

Wiley Witherspoon, 606 Charlotte Court, who conducted the Armco Steel Corp. campaign, stated that 95 per cent of the company's employees participated in this year's Community Chest drive. He said the average contribution was $9.13 per employee.

The Community Chest board of directors will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 22 in the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce office to review the campaign progress, according to Otis R. Hess Jr., Community Chest president.

Contributions from other industries and employee groups are expected to be received shortly.

Approximately 70 per cent ($20,000) of the $28,000 total collected through the Community Chest campaign will remain in Fayette County to benefit 10 participating agencies.

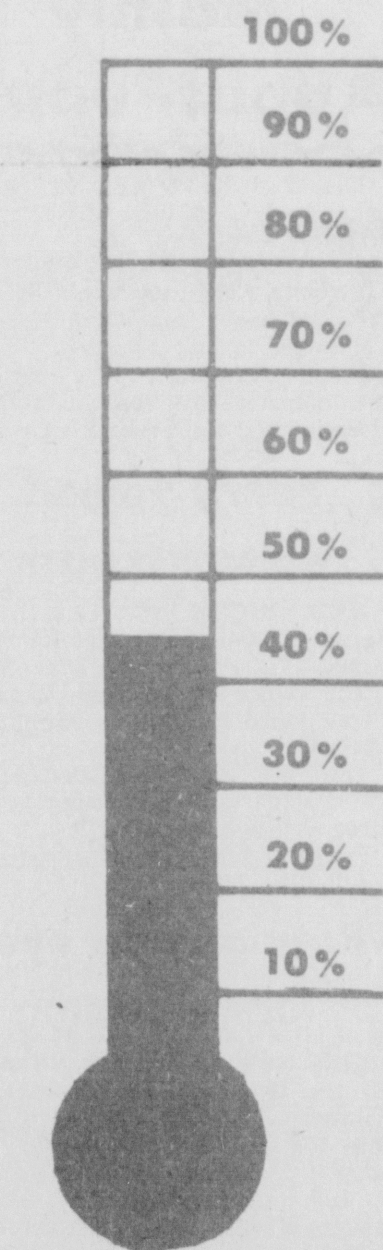

The agencies are the Boy Scouts, the Camp Fire Girls, the Community Activity Fund, the Community Education program, the Girl Scouts, the Mental Health Association, Eymann Park, the Red Cross, the Salvation Army and the Senior Citizens Center.

SIX MORE individuals and businesses have joined the ranks of the Community Chest's Red Feather Club.

Added to the Red Feather Club ranks were Dr. Joseph M. Herbert, the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brownell, Dr. Ralph Gebhart,

Glenn, Perk in head-on debate

By The Associated Press

Cleveland Mayor Ralph Perk, the Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate, said Thursday night he was not referring to the Watergate break-in when he said the nation could be proud of the Nixon administration's record.

Responding to a question during a debate at Akron with John Glenn, his Democratic opponent, Perk said the remark, made while Richard Nixon still was in office, referred to foreign policy and some domestic programs, including revenue sharing.

The two candidates rarely attacked each other in the face-to-face meeting, conducted under a format of five members of a panel questioning each man.

Glenn said this country has not even begun to meet the challenges of the energy problem. Too often, he said, the government has backed into the future without any planning and reacting only to crises.

Perk cited his long service in city hall

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . By John P. Roche

The 'three-letter' operation

Back around Aug. 20, when I was vacationing on Martha's Vineyard, there arrived in the mail a most remarkable document. It was a White House press release of a conversation between Henry Jackson, Jacob Javits and Abraham Ribicoff had held with President Ford and Secretary of State Kissinger. The first thing that struck me about it was the passive put-down of Kissinger; from the Senators' comments, one got the impression that the President was running with the ball, overruling his Secretary's position that attaching emigration conditions to the Soviet trade bill was an unfortunate intrusion into the internal affairs of the U.S.S.R. The second was that the three Senators seemed convinced that President Ford's intervention would make a compromise possible. Since Jackson, Javits and Ribicoff are hardly barefoot innocents, the President must have made a convincing case.

Now the whole business has come unglued, and the fascinating question is: Who set up whom? For the benefit of late arrivals, let me recapitulate the bidding. The scenario was to run as follows: Jackson and his associates would eliminate the mandatory language, requiring freedom of emigration as a quid pro quo for "most favored nation" trade status, under the condition that the President would send Jackson a letter stating Soviet willingness to relax restrictions. Then Jackson would write Mr. Ford a letter stating his "understanding" that this meant a minimum of 60,000 exit visas. Finally, the President would write "Scoop" and say everybody was on the same wavelength.

The reason for this elaborate charade was, of course, that the Soviets won't go on the record at all. But implicit in the behavior of the President (who is an old Congressional hand) and the three Senators was a hard assumption that Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin had assured Secretary Kissinger that the 60,000 figure was acceptable, on an informal basis, to Moscow. At this point we go off the map: Senator Jackson has been informed that the third letter will not be arriving. What happened?

Having played soccer without a helmet for years (and more than once being put in traction after heading a ball badly), I do not put much weight on former President Johnson's evaluation of President Ford's intelligence. (I have never been attracted by Rord's conservative views, but that's a different matter.) For openers, then, I assume that Ford would never deliberately sandbag three leading members of the Senate. Thus, when they had the breakfast meeting in August, the President must have believed the "three letter" operation would work. The presence of Secretary Kissinger at the breakfast indicates that if he then had any reservations he kept them to himself. (I have reason to believe that the Secretary of State endorsed the proposal wholeheartedly.)

However, according to the latest stories, our old friends "high State Department sources" and "those familiar with Secretary Kissinger's views" are running around Washington saying that the Soviets never made a flat promise, the Kissinger always hedged his bets, and the like. The Soviets, always helpful, agree that no hard commitment was made. Curiously, I believe them.

Which leaves us with two alternative explanations, neither very complimentary to Secretary Kissinger. First, it is possible that the Soviets, back in August, conned Kissinger into thinking they had made a solid commitment, and on this basis he launched President Ford on the compromise route. Or, second, Secretary Kissinger was convinced that his immense persuasiveness would bring the Soviets around and converted this hope into an alleged fact. He has something of a record for autohypnosis — recall "peace is at hand" — but misleading the President and three eminent Senators is an offense of a different order.

President Ford needs protection from incidents such as this. Again, let me urge that he put his own man in as National Security Adviser with precise instructions to nail Kissinger down on everything. Without for a moment suggesting the Secretary is dishonest, he is simply incapable of formulating American foreign policy, running the State Department, and playing Presidential watchdog over the formulation and operation of foreign policy.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 19

ARIES

(March 21 to April 20)

Don't mix business with pleasure and don't try to force issues. For the present, it will be better to let things take their course.

TAURUS

(April 21 to May 21)

You may have to revise some plans, change tactics, discard certain ideas but, in the final analysis, what you do well now will produce substantial dividends later.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

An excellent day for making new contacts, putting unique ideas into action. Influences also favorable for romance and travel.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

Faced with a decision regarding your home or career, take time to think things over. Leaving everything status quo for the time being just MIGHT be your wisest course.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Do not conclude a matter before all facts are known or a full chance for research given. You might be tricked into inaccurate moves if not wary.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Don't cross others without ample reason. And, as with Cancer, it may turn out best if you wait a bit before making decisions — giving time for alleged factors to appear.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Personal relationships under something of a cloud. Be especially tactful in situations where money is involved.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Someone may try to involve you in a personal problem. Steer clear of the situation — as your instinct probably warns you.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Your self-confidence and poise should be at a peak now, so take the initiative and go after what you want. Stumbling blocks will fall by the wayside.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Don't let your impulses dominate logic — especially in situations where finances are involved. Recklessness with money now could prove disastrous later.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Excellent influences encourage intellectual pursuits, community interests and written matters. Day spells action. Plan — and act — wisely.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to March 20)

A period for some introspection. Through reflection, you will get a clearer view of the road ahead, to make plans for further accomplishment and satisfaction.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a high order of intellect, a strong will, great practicality and self-assurance. Your business acumen is extraordinary and you could be most successful in a managerial position or, in the financial world, as an investment counselor. You have a great love of luxuries and will work unstintingly to attain them. Then, when you've earned the money needed to satisfy your desires, you're likely to go into a tailspin wondering whether to spend it. Just one of your more whimsical characteristics! Extremely versatile, aside from business, you could excel in the field of law, statesmanship, writing or medicine.

Ohio Perspective

GOP is studying strength in state

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—"Outside of northeastern Ohio and Toledo, we do very well in the state."

That was the assessment of Republican strength in Ohio given by GOP State Chairman Kent McGough. "Most of western Ohio" from Cincinnati up through the northwest corner of the state is Republican country, McGough said.

Central Ohio, including Columbus, also traditionally has been fertile ground for the GOP, while McGough pictures the southeastern part of the state as "mixed but generally Republican."

His appraisals are borne out by the results of the 1970 gubernatorial election when Gov. John J. Gilligan captured more than 53 per cent of the vote in a contest against then-state auditor Roger Cloud.

Cloud won 54 counties to Gilligan's 34, but the governor piled up big margins in the densely populated urban centers of Cleveland, Akron, Youngstown, Toledo and Dayton. Cloud scored heavily in many small rural areas.

But, Gilligan, who is from Cincinnati, lost Hamilton County by about 41,000 votes. And he didn't do much better in surrounding southwestern Ohio areas, losing by big margins in Warren, Clermont, Clinton, Highland and Butler counties.

Cloud won in Columbus by only 9,000

votes compared to the elephantine 79,000-plus edge by former Gov. James A. Rhodes over Democrat Frazier Reams in 1966.

Cloud beat Gilligan in all of the counties circling Columbus, although the edge was only 338 votes of more than 32,000 cast in Licking. Rhodes won there by more than 8,000 votes in 1966.

In Logan County, northwest of the capital, Cloud won by an impressive 4,000 votes of the 12,000 cast.

Just north of Logan is Allen County and the city of Lima, McGough's home. He described Allen "as one of the strong Republican counties in the state over the years."

Farther north in Hancock County, Cloud won by 3,500 votes of the 18,500 ballots cast.

It will be crucial for Rhodes' chances to hold Republican ground in Cincinnati while repeating his wide 1966 margin in Columbus.

In a recent interview at Republican headquarters in Columbus, reporters asked McGough if Watergate was likely to cause any chinks in Republican armor.

"Our polls show that Watergate is going to have a minimal effect," he said. "I don't say it won't have an effect. I think you'll be seeing voter disillusionment. I think it could rub off on both sides."

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Wants no wheels at her wedding

DEAR ABBY: I am being married soon. My fiancé's favorite brother, who was asked to be our best man, has just undergone his third operation. He will be out of the hospital in time for our wedding, but he'll be in a wheel chair for several months.

My fiancé insists that his brother be in the wedding party, wheelchair or no wheelchair.

Abby, there will be over 500 people at the wedding and reception. I'm having a professional photographer take pictures of the whole thing—even movies—and I just know that wheelchair will ruin everything. IMAGINE, THE BEST MAN GOING DOWN THE AISLE IN A WHEELCHAIR! I'm afraid people will laugh.

Please don't get me wrong, Abby. I love my future brother-in-law and am sorry for what he's had to go through, but I think someone else should take his place as best man. Am I wrong for wanting everything to be perfect?

PHOENIX BRIDE

DEAR BRIDE: If by "perfect" you mean appearances over the feelings of your fiancé and his favorite brother, you are indeed wrong.

A best man in a wheelchair (or for that matter, ANY member of the wedding in a wheelchair) is not unique in the annals of wedding ceremonies. And it's not apt to be laughed at.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 13-year-old girl. I'm writing this for my brother (he's 12) and myself because we both have the same problem. It's our father.

He refuses to take a vacation. Dad says he can't spare the time. He's in the insurance business and he makes a good living, but what good is the money if he works himself to death? Mom is a housewife. We live in a nice home in the suburbs, have two cars, nice clothes and my brother and I go to a good camp.

Mom and Dad haven't had a vacation together since they've been married. Other families take a vacation every year. All our dad knows is work. Is there some way we can get him to take a vacation?

We're not asking for a trip ourselves. We'd be happy if he took Mom and went someplace for a rest. Can you solve our problem?

MILWAUKEE KIDS

DEAR KIDS: You might tell Dad that because you love him you want him to live a long time, so he'd better take care of his health. Being in the insurance business he knows that all work and no play may make a lot of jack, but it also makes Jack a poor insurance risk.

DEAR ABBY: Sixteen years ago I read a letter in your column urging readers to remove the doors from stored and abandoned iceboxes and refrigerators so children couldn't crawl into them and become accidentally trapped. (You called them "potential coffins.")

I remembered that letter so vividly because the year before, I had lost a precious four-year-old grandson in such a senseless accident. Following his death, his mother (my daughter-in-law) had psychiatric treatment for a year to overcome her recurring nightmares and feelings of guilt.

I read the same warning in your column three more times over the years.

Yesterday I read a small item in our local newspaper. A seven-year-old girl, who had been missing for 12 hours, was found dead in an abandoned icebox stored in the basement of a playmate's home. During a game of hide and seek, the child had crawled into the icebox, was trapped, and eventually died of suffocation.

Abby, will you please warn your readers again? It may save a young life.

GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: I will. But most people are strange. They think the weird things about which they read can never happen to them.

Mrs. Puffenberger honored with layette gifts

On Tuesday afternoon Fellowship Hall of Grace Church was the setting for a baby shower for the Puffenberger baby whose appearance is a much anticipated event of late November.

Mrs. Allen Puffenberger was pleased by the large number of women of the church honoring her and Pastor Puffenberger by wanting to participate in providing a lavish welcome for a new member of the family. Gifts ranged from a wide assortment of pretty clothes, hand-knitted and crocheted blankets and booties, toys, baby food, "Pampers", through money for the baby's bank account. There were even gifts from a number of friends not able to come that afternoon.

Some 50 women watched as Mrs. Puffenberger, assisted by her very interested pre-school daughter, Angela, unwrapped gaily wrapped packages on a long table which was centered with a vase of beautiful Peace roses. Mrs. Puffenberger graciously expressed her appreciation to each person in turn, and there was much laughing and comment as the unwrapping progressed through the hour.

Then following the shower, all participants were invited to an attractive tea table centered with a large paper stork balancing on one leg. The napkin motif carried out the stork theme. Dishes of nuts, mints, a bountiful supply of delicious homemade tea cookies and at one end a wonderfully refreshing pink punch. Pink tapers completed the setting.

The afternoon ended then in the enjoyment of refreshments and visiting.

Class observes 45th b'day

Fifteen members and one guest, Mrs. Gene Smith, a former member but now living in Pickerington, assembled in the parlor of the First Presbyterian Church, for the 45th birthday of the Marguerite Sunday School Class. Various bowls of flowers decorated the room and a vase of blue and white carnations was given to Mrs. Marguerite Jenkins, class teacher, at the close of the meeting.

Mrs. P. M. Cook, substitute teacher, had charge of the devotions and read several verses from 1st Corinthians, containing passages of love, devotion and loyalty, applying these verses to the members who had all been so faithful to their class these many years. She closed with a beautiful prayer.

Mrs. William Rogers, president, held a short business meeting. Reports were read and approved and it was announced that the shipment of pecans would probably be received by the end of the month. Any one wishing pecans may call the class members. Plans were made for the Christmas party to be held December 10th, more details later.

Mrs. Jenkins had brought old pictures taken of the class members many years ago, also old secretary books dating from 1941 to 1959, many amusing events were recalled and discussed. She also gave a most interesting account of her recent trip to Germany, and showed pictures of old castles and ruins, and beautiful churches and old cathedrals, that she has visited.

The group was then invited to the tea table, covered with a lace cloth over a blue lining and centered with a silver bowl containing fruit and a large blue candle. The refreshments also carried the blue and silver color scheme, individual birthday cakes with blue candles, blue and silver nut cups and salad.

The hostesses for this delightful evening were Mrs. Kenneth Arnold, Mrs. Dorothy Dellinger and Mrs. Kenneth Craig.

Man bound to grand jury in shotgun theft case

A Washington C.H. man was bound over to the Fayette County Common Pleas Court grand jury while a charge against a brother in the same case was dismissed by Acting Judge John P. Case during hearings in Municipal Court.

The two men, Robert M. Varney, 25, of Columbus, and Charles O. Varney, 36, of 331 Rose Ave., were arrested by Washington C.H. police officers Oct. 8.

5 policemen in city dispute

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Half of suburban Montgomery's 10-man police force was suspended by Mayor Robert Novak Thursday, then reinstated 11 hours later.

Novak said he took the action against the five veteran policemen because they violated department regulations against speaking publicly on police matters without the chief of police's permission.

The five have attempted to negotiate with city officials on wages, hours and working conditions.

Novak said negotiations must be "undertaken in good faith and not in the glare of publicity."

'Gifts for Yanks' program set

Members of the Paul H. Hughey Post 25, American Legion in Washington C.H. have joined with hundreds of other Ohio American Legion posts to help make Christmas memorable for hospitalized veterans by collecting funds for the annual "Gifts for Yanks Who Gave" program.

This is the 23rd consecutive year the Ohio American Legion is pooling funds from state posts for gifts and activities to benefit veterans in 16 state hospitals, five Veterans Administration hospitals and the Soldiers and Sailors home at Sandusky.

The program's name is the same as the one initiated by comedian Eddie

Canter during World War II.

"THIS EFFORT is not limited to members of the legion," stated Henry C. Litz, commander of the American Legion Post 25. "We welcome contributions from individuals and business establishments to help finance the statewide program costing over $68,000.

Contributions may be sent to Fred Allen Jr., American Legion Post 25, Washington C.H.

In addition to distributing more than 5,000 cartons of tax-free cigarettes to veterans, the Ohio American Legion also is contributing $10,000 to the five gift shops operated at Veterans Hospitals in order that patients may select gifts to send their families, and more than $40,000 for the purchase of canteen books for VA patients.

Televisions, radios and other electronic equipment for the VA hospitals and the Soliders and Sailors home are also provided again this year from the program funds, Litz said.

The fund will also spend over $15,000 on other than Christmas activities for VA and state hospital patients.

SING ALONG—Children at the Fayette Christian School sing "Jesus Loves Me" with teacher Mrs. Denny Howard during an early morning session.

Children learn at early age at Christian school

By SANDY FOSSON
Record-Herald Staff Writer

The Fayette Christian School operates under the belief that children are ready to learn at an early age.

The idea is not a new one and the 14 children enrolled in the first and only Christian private school in Fayette County are between the ages of three and five.

HOWEVER, these pre-school and kindergarten children are being taught not only the alphabet and numbers, but they are also learning phonic sounds and how to count and read.

According to Mrs. Denny Howard, the pre-school teacher at the school, the curriculum is similar to the popular television educational program for children, "Sesame Street," but is called "A Beka Publications," designed by Dr. Arlis Horton, of Pensacola, Fla.

In the curriculum, the children learn by playing games. The school is classified as a Day-Care Center, but as Mrs. Howard said, "It doesn't need to be all playtime. The children are ready to learn and reading is very important."

In the non-denominational school begun by the Fayette Bible Church, 1315 Dayton Ave., where the classes are held from 9 a.m. until noon, are 10 pre-school children and four kindergarten students.

The pre-school class, which meets three times a week, is taught the alphabet and numbers and are required to write once a week.

The kindergarten class meets every day of the week. They print each day and learn beginning reading.

The Rev. Denny Howard, pastor of the Fayette Bible Church, is the administrator at the school. While Mrs. Howard teaches the pre-schoolers, Mrs. Don Wald instructs the kindergarten class. Neither are certified teachers, but are qualified for preliminary license by the state.

Mrs. Howard said because the school was termed a "Day-Care Center" they did not need teacher certification, with inspection under the Ohio Health and Welfare Board rather than the Ohio Board of Education.

However, the school is planning to include a first and second grade in its courses next year and will be required to meet Ohio Board of Education standards, including certified teachers, said Mrs. Howard.

BECAUSE the school is under a Christian framework, the children are given a specific Bible time three days a week to learn a Bible story that has been applied to their lives.

"Our learning is related to God and we must learn to do the best in school," Mrs. Howard said. "Education is not only physical, emotional and mental but also spiritual and must emphasize all four."

Mrs. Howard said the school is self-supporting by operating from funds received through contributions and tuition.

Gilligan taxes lashed by Rhodes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Former Gov. James A. Rhodes sketched a picture of Ohio Republicans Thursday night of schools in turmoil and double taxation for citizens under Democratic Gov. John J. Gilligan.

Rhodes was the final speaker at an all-day state Republican convention that saw the party faithful rally behind his campaign for governor against Gilligan.

The convention approved a state platform calling for tax reform with no increase in present taxes, spending cuts, more state money for schools and welfare reform.

Those were the subjects on Rhodes' mind as he talked for 45 minutes to delegates in a broad-based attack on the Gilligan administration.

Rhodes said "Gilligan must double the (state) income tax" to deliver on his campaign promises. And he said Ohioans were already paying "double taxes" because of the real estate tax.

As it is, Rhodes said, too much emphasis is placed on the real estate tax to fund public schools in the state. He said there were 300 tax levies on the November ballot in school districts that were short of operating money.

"Let me assure you," he told the 1,200 or so delegates, "as governor of this state, education is going to get more money."

Rhodes said if Gilligan was not going to give enough state money to schools that "he should cut the income tax." Neither Rhodes, nor the new platform, proposed repeal of the income tax.

Under the present governor, Rhodes said, "We have had more turbulence, more turmoil...than we've ever had in the history of our schools."

The former two-term governor said Gilligan, and not local officials, must take full responsibility for the state welfare program which he termed a "disaster."

Many of the broadsides, as Rhodes readily admitted, had been hurled earlier by other statewide candidates who damned Democrats while exhorting Republicans work harder in a campaign in which many of their candidates are believed to be trailing.

One of those underdogs, Cleveland Mayor Ralph Perk, got a boost for his U.S. Senate candidacy from Sen. Robert Taft, who said he wanted to "clear up a misunderstanding" in the press that he was pessimistic about Perk's chances.

"While Perk is definitely an underdog because of the publicity and large campaign resources of his opponent (John Glenn) he can win if we get the voters to relate their choice to national needs and issues," Taft said.

Perk had earlier demanded stronger Republican support for his campaign, saying party members "have a duty to present my record to the public and to support the ticket from top to bottom."

Disaster relief set for county victims

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners and the Fayette County Welfare Department are cooperating with the Disaster Services of Ohio in distributing disaster relief applications to local families who were victims of the April tornado.

The local Department of Welfare office in the county Courthouse annex will be open Oct. 23-24 from 12 to 8 p.m. to accept applications from disaster victims who may be eligible for individual and family grants under the Disaster Relief Act of 1974.

According to welfare director O. M. Riegel and commissioner Robert Mace, the program was set up to aid Ohio victims of last spring's tornadoes. Approximately six to eight Fayette County residents may be eligible for aid after an April tornado ripped through several mobile homes in the area.

Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan said the Disaster Relief Act authorizes state and federal funds for the purpose of making grants to meet disaster-related necessary expenses.

The program is specifically designed to provide help to those disaster victims whose needs cannot be met through an existing program or other form of assistance.

Application centers in Xenia and Cincinnati have already administered to many of the needs of tornado victims in those areas.

The maximum grant or aggregation of grants to any individual or family has been set at $5,000. However, the dollar amount of any specific grant will be limited to those expenditures determined eligible under the program.

The disaster victim must demonstrate that despite the assistance received or applied for under available programs, there remain necessary expenses or serious needs which have not been met, in order to qualify for a grant.

Fine, suspended jail term meted in court

A 31-year-old Washington C. H. man was fined $125 and a Sabina woman had a 30-day jail sentence suspended by acting Judge John P. Case Thursday in Municipal Court.

James Evans, 704 Church St., was fined $125 and sentenced to 30 days in jail after he pleaded guilty to a charge of felonious assault filed on a private warrant.

Judge Case suspended 26 days of the sentence pending one year good conduct and credited Evans with the four days already served in jail for the remainder of the sentence.

Rose Potts, 59, of Sabina, pleaded guilty to a charge of theft of a Cricket lighter from Buckeye Mart store in the Washington Square Shopping Center. Judge Case suspended a 30-day jail sentence providing one year good conduct.

In traffic cases heard Thursday by Judge Case, Jerry D. Tuttle, 18, Ohio 753, was fined $20 after pleading no contest to having an unsafe bumper height on his auto.

Tuttle's automobile had a back bumper which measured 18 inches from the ground to the bottom of the bumper, while the safe measurement is 12.8 inches for the make of auto.

Those forfeiting bonds were: Jefferson L. Pollock, 21, of 1225 High St., $25, failure to drive on the right half of the roadway; Vickie J. Beekman, 22, of 134 N. Oakland Ave., $35, speed; Randle G. Money, 28, Guernsey, $25, failure to yield to oncoming traffic; Gary Williamson, 18, Greenfield, $25, speed; and Russell C. Grooms, 21, Rt. 6, $25, unsafe bumper height.

Rail walkout by N&W men said over

ROANOKE, Va. (AP) — Action by federal courts Thursday in West Virginia and Ohio apparently prompted a return to work by Norfolk & Western Railroad employees who had been reporting off sick.

An N&W spokesman here said 460 members of the United Transportation Union (UTU) were reported off work early Thursday, but by late that evening 210 of them in Virginia, West Virginia and Ohio had returned to their jobs.

The railroad sought federal court action in the two states in an attempt to stop the massive sickout that began earlier this week in West Virginia.

The railroad requested and was granted a show-cause order in U.S. District Court in Charleston, W.Va., Thursday. About 90 persons who took part in the "sickout" face a hearing Monday in Bluefield, W.Va., to explain why they shouldn't be punished for violating a temporary restraining order issued by the federal court Tuesday.

In Cincinnati, the railroad obtained a temporary restraining order to prohibit the work stoppage from spreading into Ohio.

The railroad called the walkout "an illegal work stoppage unauthorized by its union." An N&W spokesman said the conflict arose out of an "internal union matter" involving conductors and trainmen who are members of the UTU.

The N&W, which is headquartered here, serves 14 states in the East and Midwest.

Nearly 15 million acres of United States wildlife areas can be traveled only on foot or horseback.

JUVENILE COURT

Probate-Juvenile Court Judge Rollo M. Marchant handed down decisions in seven juvenile cases Wednesday, including four juvenile traffic offenders, one unruly child and two delinquent children.

Steven A. Stritenberger, 17, of 623 Clinton Ave., was ordered to attend the next defensive driving course after he was declared a juvenile traffic offender. Stritenberger was cited following a Sept. 30 accident for failure to yield to oncoming traffic.

Regina McDonald, 17, Cincinnati, was adjudged to be a juvenile traffic offender and had her operator's license suspended for 30 days after being charged with allowing an unlicensed person to operate a motor vehicle.

Barbara L. Bryant, 17, Cincinnati, had her driver's license suspended for 18 days after she was found guilty of speeding as a juvenile traffic offender.

Timothy A. McKinney, 18, West Chester, was adjudged to be a juvenile traffic offender for speeding and had his license suspended for 12 days.

A 16-year-old Jeffersonville youth was placed on probation under probation officer Marshall Boggs after being declared an unruly child.

Two area girls were placed on probation Wednesday by Judge Marchant after he found them to be delinquent children.

Rosita R. Cremons, 15, Greenfield, and Brenda K. Crawford, 15, Mt. Sterling, were placed under probation officer Marshall Boggs after they were found delinquent of theft.

Seek blood replacement

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Classmates and friends of a 17-year-old boy who died last week of a rare blood disorder have launched a drive for blood to help his family.

Michael Allen Doctor's parents were forced to put their home up for sale to pay for the 800 pints of blood he needed to fight Fanconi's anemia, a disease that attacks the blood-producing bone marrow.

The day he died, Oct. 9, about two dozen of his classmates at Scarlet Oaks

Career Development Campus, began the drive to replace the blood.

Since most of the students were under 18, they could not donate their own blood, but they have spurred a massive drive to help the suburban Montgomery family.

Michael was a senior enrolled in chef's training at Scarlet Oaks and had told his parents he wanted to live long enough to become a chef.

As his health waned, classmates wheeled him to and from classes in a wheelchair built at the school.

Rhodes denies ordering force

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Former Gov. James A. Rhodes claims in a statement to be filed today in federal court in Toledo that former Ohio Adj. Gen. Sylvester Del Corso told newsmen the day before the 1970 Kent State shootings he (Del Corso) was ready to use any force necessary to quell student unrest on the campus.

But Rhodes adds in the incomplete deposition obtained by The Plain Dealer that he didn't grasp what he heard.

In the deposition, Rhodes denies that he ordered the Ohio National Guard to use any force necessary during the series of demonstrations that culminated in the May 4 shootings which left four students dead and nine wounded.

The deposition was taken Oct. 3-4 in connection with civil damage suits arising from the shootings. The deposing was continued to November after Rhodes pleaded ill health.

Rhodes' attorneys sought to have the document kept secret until after the Nov. 5 election in which he is the Republican candidate for governor, but a U.S. District judge in Toledo denied the request Thursday.

The deposition was in the hands of a Cleveland court reporter Thursday, pending filing in Toledo.

Former National Guard spokesman Michael W. Delaney has charged Rhodes said he came to the campus to take charge of guardsmen he ordered there, but the former governor has denied it.

Rhodes also directed that whatever force necessary be used to break up student gatherings and that he didn't want even two students walking together.

Del Corso's statement came May 3, the day before the shootings and the day after demonstrators burned the Reserve Officers Training Corps building on campus, Rhodes says.

"I'll be right behind with the National Guard to give our full support, anything that is necessary like the Ohio law says, use any force that is necessary even to the point of shooting," the former governor says the general told newsmen.

Rhodes adds that "things at the press conference were moving fast and I don't think that I grasped everything that I did hear, that I grasped any of these words."

Rhodes' attorney refused to let the former governor answer a cross-examination question about whether Rhodes' "failure to say anything was tantamount to a tacit endorsement of the general's remarks."

Rhodes' attorney contended the question went to the point of the case and that the issue was not to be decided by Rhodes as a witness.

Rhodes also says in the statement that he never took over for his adjutant general and always acted on advice of Rhodes' chief legal adviser, John McElroy.

McElroy also is a defendant in the suits filed by parents of the shooting victims and others.

Armstrong honored by broadcasters

MASON, Ohio (AP)—Neil A. Armstrong, first man to set foot on the moon, was honored by the Ohio Association of Broadcasters Thursday for his service to his country, accomplishments in space and devotion to his home state.

The former astronaut, a native of Wapakoneta and now on the faculty at the University of Cincinnati, was presented the association's 10th annual achievement award during an OAB meeting at Kings Island.

The award, presented by Gov. John Gilligan, noted Armstrong's more than 25 years of distinguished service and "the cause for pride he has provided people everywhere."

Armstrong, in a brief acceptance talk, quipped that perhaps his greatest interest in his televised moon walk in 1969 was "not the quality of the program but the fact that we did it on location."

Walter E. Bartlett, senior vice president-television for Avco Broadcasting Corp., headquartered in Cincinnati, was presented the association's 10th annual "Broadcaster of the Year" award.

The citation noted Bartlett's career of more than 20 years and said he "has brought great credit to the broadcasting industry in Ohio."

Indiana Gov. Otis R. Bowen addressed the luncheon gathering, a joint meeting of the OAB and Indiana Broadcasters Association, and called for improved dialogue between public officials and journalists.

He said a growing strain in the relationships between public officials and the media presents a "substantial risk that the public will 'tune out' both sides."

Bowen said he was not suggesting that either side retreat from its duties, "but if either is to discharge its responsibilities to the public...we will have to seek as much common ground as possible."

Undeclared Lions in non-league tilt
 Time running out for contenders

BY LARRY WATTS
 Record-Herald Sports Editor
 Entering the seventh night of football, time is running out for the South Central Ohio League teams in preventing Washington Court House from capturing their second consecutive championship.
 The Lions, who lead the loop with a perfect 3-0 mark, will be involved in a non-league contest while the remainder of the teams will be battling each other. Every SCOL squad, except for Court House has at least one loss in league competition.
 Court House followers will be especially hoping from some help from Wilmington, Unioto and Hillsboro this week. All three teams, having already lost two games in the league, will be the underdogs in their games tonight.

MIAMI TRACE AT WILMINGTON
 Miami Trace, 1-1 in the league and 4-2 overall, will be out to break the Wilmington jinx this evening. Only in 1971, when the Panthers had a perfect 10-0 record, was Miami Trace able to

Akron St. Vincent nearly loses game

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A technicality almost cost Akron St. Vincent-St. Mary its perfect 1974 Ohio high school football record.
 Ohio's No. 1 ranked Class AA power scored what appeared to be the winning touchdown with 10 seconds left last week against Cuyahoga Falls.
 But the referee ruled the ball had not been whistled into play. So the clock was reset to 10 seconds.
 Two plays later, halfback Paul Winters scored with three seconds to go for a 26-22 triumph, making the Akron power 6-0-0.
 Around Ohio: Nelsonville York in Athens County has played five games, three of them scoreless ties with Trimble, Albany Alexander and Vincent Warren. The Buckeyes are 2-0-3.
 Mount Vernon sophomore Vic Lindsey's first punt return: 85 yards for a touchdown in a 7-6 upset of Westerville ... Fullback Jeff Curry's 79-yard run was the longest in Cincinnati Moeller history, helping Moeller Coach Gerry Faust to his 100th coaching victory against Dayton Chaminade last week.
 Willoughby South has the longest unbeaten streak in the Cleveland area, 18 games including a pair of ties ... Wauseon is already champion of the Northwest Ohio League with a 4-0-1 league record ... Montpelier's Lynn Oberlin is 20 yards shy of 3,000 career rushing yards.
 Parma Valley Forge ended Parma Senior's unbeaten season last week, 40-22, and Valley Forge public address announcer Jim Riha was the unhappiest. Technical difficulties prevented Riha from telling the crowd of four extra points by his son, Steve.
 Minerva's Jamie Morckel booted a 51-yard field goal against Carrollton ... Plain City Alder has won 18 games in a row.
 Rodell Jackson, with 340 yards rushing, broke the Canton Timken one-game record of 255 set by Jon Ailing 19 years ago.
 Frank Myers of Ottawa Glandorf has 1,125 ground yards in six games ... Mark Newell of Mapleton leads the Mansfield area scorers with 84 points after 30 last week against Norwalk St. Paul. The 36-0 St. Paul loss ended the

McKinnis has hopes with Browns

CLEVELAND (AP)—Cleveland running back Nugh McKinnis has a very simple explanation for his 7.4 average per carry rushing game with the Browns this season.
 "The blocking I've been getting has been real good," he says. "I just get the ball and the holes open up for me. That's the way it happens."
 McKinnis has had only 20 opportunities to carry the ball this season, but Sunday he will be called on to start in the Browns game against the Pittsburgh Steelers.
 Coach Nick Skorich moved McKinnis into the fullback spot as a part of the general shakeup in the starting lineup. Skorich is hoping to bring the Browns back from a miserable 1-4 season record.
 McKinnis said he prepared for the 1974 season with the thought of being able to win veteran Leroy Kelly's job, which Kelly vacated at the end of last season.

defeat the Hurricanes on the gridiron.
 Jackie Watson, the flashy Wilmington halfback, has been the key to the Hurricanes' offense this season. Wilmington leads the SCOL runners in rushing, rushing average and points scored. In six games he has carried the ball 89 times for 652 yards and a 7.33 average. Watson has totaled 76 points.
 To counter Wilmington's offensive punch, Miami Trace will be tossing fullback Jeff Sagar and quarterback Tom Riley at the Hurricanes. In scoring 56 points, Sagar has carried the ball 98 times for 620 yards and a 6.33 average. In addition to carrying the ball 62 times for 321 yards, Riley has also connected on 28 of 55 passes for 340 yards.
 Added punch in the Miami Trace backfield will come from Rex Coe, who has been filling in for injured Tom Pfaff at halfback. Coe has been a pleasant surprise to coach Fred Zechman and his crew as he has carried the ball 13 times for 104 yards in two league games.

Norwalk school's record of 23 straight Firelands Conference triumphs.
 John Ziegler of Warren Harding averaged 24.3 yards in 10 rushes last week against Alliance. Ziegler is within 120 yards of Paul Warfield's school rushing record of 1,158 yards in 1959.
 It sounded like baseball in the Columbus area last week: St. Charles and Big Walnut both winning 3-0, Brookhaven 3-2, Marysville 6-0 and Bexley 7-0.
 Dayton Jefferson now has the state's alltime victory streak of 45 games, beating National Trail, 59-0, last week. James Clark's first 100-yard rushing game for Jefferson was 268 yards, snapping the school mark.

Cowboys, Browns post easy victories

In junior high action at Miami Trace, the Cowboys and Browns continue to dominate the race. The Cowboys destroyed the Bengals 52-6 and the Rams were 36-6 victims of the Browns, Thursday evening.
 With the victories, the Cowboys are now 4-0 and the Browns are 3-1. The Rams are presently 1-3, while the Bengals are winless in four outings.
 Scott Grooms intercepted four passes, scored 12 points and threw a touchdown pass in the Cowboys' win. His 75-yard return of a pass interception opened the scoring for in the first quarter. Brian Zurface ran the conversion.
 In the second quarter, Zurface took a pitch out and ran 44 yards for the score. Mark Dunn accounted for the conversion on a pass from Grooms. Later in the period, Carl Riley hit paydirt on a one-yard run and Dunn caught a 66-yard touchdown pass from Grooms. Grooms also ran the conversion following Riley's touchdown.
 Two of the Cowboys' touchdowns in the second half were scored by Zurface on a six-yard run and a 75-yard run. Riley added the other score on a one-yard plunge and Grooms scored two of the conversions.
 The Bengals' only touchdown was set up by a blocked punt. John St. Clair scored the touchdown on a five-yard run.
 For the game, the Cowboys totaled six pass interceptions. Jack Penwell and Ron Dean were credited for outstanding defensive games.
 Duerrell Neitz returned the opening kickoff 70 yards for a score and the tone of the game was set for the Browns. Bill Horney ran the conversion to give his team an 8-0 lead.
 The Browns came up with two touchdowns in the second stanza. Quarterback Ed Forsythe found an open hole and galloped 87 yards for the score. Forsythe later fired a six-yard scoring pass to Mike Eddlemon and Neitz ran the conversion.
 The Browns scored a touchdown in each of the two remaining periods. Glen Cobb crossed the goal line on a return of a 33-yard pass interception and Eddlemon ran the conversion in the third frame. In the fourth period, Neitz broke loose for a 47-yard romp.
 The Rams' only score of the game came in the final quarter. Mike Cline picked up a fumble and returned it 70 yards.

 HILLSBORO AT GREENFIELD
 This marks the Tigers' sixth and final home football game for this season. With a victory, Greenfield, which is 4-2 for the year and 2-1 in the SCOL, will be at least assured of an even season.
 Hillsboro has been having its problems putting it together this year. The Indians, who are 2-4 overall and 0-2 in the league, have given up nearly 30 points per game.
 One of the biggest obstacles facing the Indians will be the defense of the Tigers. All four of Greenfield's victories have been shutouts and the opponents have only scored a total of 31 points in the other two games.
 For the first time this season, Greenfield tailback Gary Barr slipped

 Hillsboro's lineup offered some changes in the 24-8 loss to Adena last week. Don Marsh, who had been the starting quarterback all season, started at tight end and Tyler Woods drew the starting nod as signal caller. However, after three periods, Marsh was moved back to quarterback and he responded by tossing 17 passes and completing five in one period.
 CIRCLEVILLE AT UNIOTO
 Circleville lost its league opener to Greenfield, but the roundtowners have been tough to stop since that loss. Now 2-1 in the SCOL and 4-2 for the year, Circleville is fresh off a 14-12 win over Miami Trace.
 The Tigers can not afford to take Unioto as lightly as Greenfield. Despite being 0-2 in the SCOL and 3-3 for the season, the Shermans are big and have the capabilities of exploding on offense.

Oakland captures third title

By KEN RAPPAPORT
AP Sports Writer

OAKLAND (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers brought out the best in the Oakland A's. As it turned out, the best was good enough to win the 1974 World Series.

"They needed a little humility," said Sal Bando, and the A's gave it to them by whipping the Dodgers 3-2 Thursday night to win their third straight world title, this one in five uneasy games.

The season ended officially when Oakland relief star Rolie Fingers closed the pinch-hitter Von Joshua's bleeding grounder and hopped in joy as he threw out the runner.

Actually, the Dodgers were dead but didn't know it when they popped off against the A's before this bizarre Series started.

They called the A's doubtful champions, even though they had won two straight baseball titles.

"After they beat Pittsburgh in the (National League) playoffs, the Dodgers said they weren't impressed by us," said Joe Rudi, who hit the winning home run Thursday night. "Well, they have all winter to think about it."

Reggie Jackson, the most emotional of all the dynamic A's, wouldn't gloat over the obviously sweet victory. But you got some idea how he felt when he announced: "We're the champs ... I don't have to say anything more."

What the Dodgers learned from the 1974 World Series is that you don't give the A's a break and expect to get away with it.

In the first game at Los Angeles, the Dodgers outthit the A's 11-6, but the A's outscored the Dodgers 3-2. Jackson homered for the A's, and they got their winning runs on a squeeze bunt by Bert Campaneris and an error by Dodger third baseman Ron Cey. Fingers throttled the Dodgers with some great relief pitching before 25-game winner Jim "Catfish" Hunter came in to get the last out.

Another 3-2 score resulted in the second game at Los Angeles, but this time the Dodgers were the winners. Joe Ferguson hit a two-run homer for the National League champions and strongman Mike Marshall snuffed out a ninth-inning Oakland rally.

After the A's scored two runs on Joe Rudi's base hit in the ninth inning, sprinter Herb Washington ran for Rudi but was picked off first base by Marshall in the most embarrassing play of the Series for Oakland.

It was a big mistake, Washington admitted, but the last one for the world champions.

Back in the comfort of their own ballpark, the A's took a typical 3-2 decision in game No. 3. The A's scored two unearned runs after Ferguson, moved from right field to catcher, fumbled Jackson's 15-foot bouncer in front of the plate. Bill Buckner and Willie Crawford hit home runs for the Dodgers, but they came too late.

The omnipresent Fingers saved the victory for Hunter. As you might expect, the A's were outthit by the Dodgers 7-5 but Oakland still found a way to win.

Pitcher Ken Holtzman, who hits as well as he pitches in World Series play, unloaded a home run in Oakland's 5-2 victory in game No. 4.

Jim Holt, hitless in 25 pinchhitting appearances during the regular season, delivered a two-run single to key a four-run sixth inning that broke the game open. The tireless Fingers bailed out an Oakland starter once more.

That set the stage for Thursday night. Movie star Rock Hudson threw out the first ball — and the A's picked up the same, tired script.

"We never win them easily," said Oakland second baseman Dick Green, the defensive star of the Series.

Vida Blue, still looking for his first World Series victory, was given an early lead but couldn't hold it. A Dodger error set up Sal Bando's sacrifice fly in the first inning, then Ray Fosse hit a mistake pitch from Dodger ace Don Sutton into the left field seats for a 2-0 Oakland lead.

It stayed that way until the sixth, when the Dodgers tied the game with the help of their two best run-producers of 1974. Jimmy Wynn hit a sacrifice fly and Steve Garvey singled in the second run and the Dodgers pulled even with the A's at 2-2.

This quieted the capacity crowd of 49,347 fans at the Oakland Coliseum for a while — but they didn't stay that way for very long.

In the next inning, Rudi parked an inside fastball from Marshall into the left field seats. The massive electronic sign in left field lit up "JOE" in 90-foot letters, green and gold A's pennants sprouted from the concrete stands and, as the crowd noise peaked, fireworks went off.

The dramatic home run came after a game delay of six minutes. A fan had thrown a bottle on the field and Wynn, the Dodgers' center fielder, collected it and threw it to the sidelines with disdain. The Dodgers had a conference with the umpires about the possibility of pulling their players off the field, but decided that the situation was not quite that critical.

By the time Marshall got around to throwing a pitch, Rudi was ready for him.

"I hit an inside fastball which, believe it or not, I sort of expected," the Oakland star said.

Then along came Fingers.

"I was told that if we got the lead, I'd be in the game," said Fingers.

He came in, all right, but wasn't his usual self. This was evident when he gave up a hard single to Buckner leading off the eighth inning.

The ball got through center fielder Bill North and Buckner attempted to make third on the error — but was nailed on a beauty of a relay throw from Jackson to Green to Bando.

Fingers walked the dangerous Wynn but got out of the inning by getting Garvey and Joe Ferguson on fly balls.

The great relief pitcher then got the Dodgers 1-2-3 in the ninth and the A's became the first team in baseball history since the New York Yankees to win three straight World Series. The Yanks won five straight at one point and four at another.

Teenage millionaire to make court debut

Moses Malone, pro basketball's first teen-age millionaire, makes his heralded debut tonight when the American Basketball Association launches its eighth season.

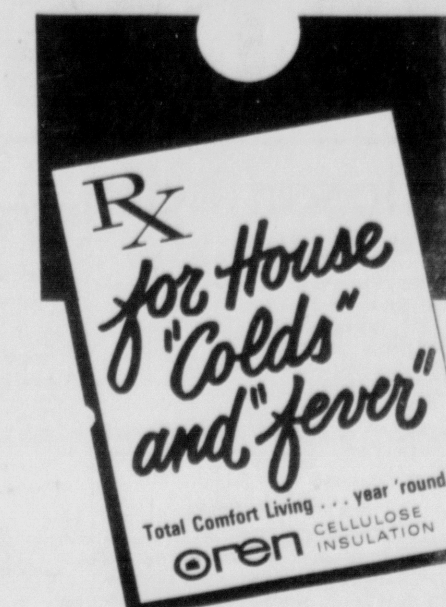

The remarkable 19-year-old Malone — who jumped from Petersburg, Va., High School right into the pros, signing a five-year contract estimated at more than $3 million with the Utah Stars — will play his first ABA game against the league's defending champions, the New York Nets.

In other ABA openers tonight, the new Spirits of St. Louis will entertain the Memphis Sounds, San Antonio will be at Indiana, and Denver at Kentucky.

The 6-foot-11 Malone, expected to be brought along slowly by Bucky Buckwalter, the Stars' new coach, speeded up the timetable with some outstanding play during the exhibition campaign, and might start against the Nets.

"He's really big and he figures to be one of the best rebounders in the league before long," said Rod Thorn, the Nets assistant coach and chief scout after watching Malone in preseason action. "He reminds me a lot of our Larry Kenon, he's so active under the boards, only he's a few inches bigger."

Fingers chosen MVP

by HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

OAKLAND (AP) — If you were casting a 1930s movie serial, Rolie Fingers and his carefully cultivated handbar moustache would be perfect for the villain.

And if you were casting a World Series for the Oakland A's, the man you would want warming up in the bullpen is Fingers, who has a way of showing up on the mound when the A's are about to win World championships.

The sinister looking righthander earned an automobile as Most Valuable Player in the World Series, winning one game, saving two others, and appearing in all four Oakland victories over Los Angeles. It is no coincidence that the only game Fingers didn't pitch in was the one the Dodgers won.

The world championship was the third straight for the A's. They won in seven games in 1972, seven in 1973 and five in 1974. That's 19 baseball games. In 16 of them, Fingers has come out of the bullpen.

There is just so much rubber in any pitcher's arm and Fingers admitted that the constant work was beginning to take its toll as he worked against the Dodgers in the final two innings of Thursday night's championship-clinching game.

"I was getting tired," he said. "The back of my arm hurt so I couldn't get a breaking ball over. I only could get my fast ball over."

In the eighth inning, Fingers tried a breaking ball on Dodgers' slugger Joe Ferguson, who sent the ball soaring towards the left field seats — but well foul. "He hit the pitch nine million miles," said Fingers. "I threw it away after that."

Before the game, A's pitching coach Wes Stock sidled up to Fingers and asked how his arm felt after two straight days of work. "I told him I had a few innings in it," said the reliever. That was all Stock and Manager

Alvin Dark needed to hear. With the score tied at 2-2 and the game moving into the late innings, Stock told Fingers to get ready. "He told me that I'd be pitching if we scored one run," said Fingers.

Sure enough, the A's got that run on a first-pitch homer by Joe Rudi against Dodgers' bullpen ace Mike Marshall in the bottom of the seventh. That was the signal for Fingers to start warming up.

After Ferguson's foul drive in the eighth, Fingers sailed into the ninth, needing only three more outs to nail down the World championship. He got them in a hurry.

Ron Cey flied deep to Reggie Jackson in right field. Then pinch-hitter Willie Crawford popped up. That brought up Von Joshua, the Dodgers' last hope.

Fingers overpowered the Dodger pinch-hitter and Joshua tapped meekly back to the mound. Fingers gloved the ball and half-ran, half-hopped his way toward first base before finally tossing to Gene Tenace for the final out.

"I just wanted to make a good throw to Gene at the end," he said, "but I was hopping up and down. Boy was I happy."

Creamer leads Panther win

With David Creamer's four touchdowns leading the way, Miami Trace's freshman team captured its third victory without a defeat in downing Wilmington 40-8, Thursday evening.

Creamer opened the scoring in the first period with a eight-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Shane Riley.

In the second stanza, the Panther frosh came up with 22 points. The first touchdown of the frame came on a eight-yard run by Creamer and David Glass ran the conversion. Later in the period, Glass crossed the goal line on a 14-yard burst and he again scored the conversion. The final touchdown before halftime came on a 71-yard run by Dennis Combs.

Both touchdowns in the second half were scored by Creamer. In the third quarter, he scored from three yards away and in the final quarter, he hit paydirt on a 43-yard return of a pass interception.

Combs and Scott Martin led the defensive effort, which limited Wilmington to a total of 43 yards. For the third consecutive game, Combs blocked a punt.

Offensively, coach Sonny Walters praised the blocking performances of Shawn Riley, Keith Downing and John Burr. He also singled out quarterbacks Shane Riley and Craig DeMent for good games.

The vending machines were owned by Ace Vending Machine Co., Columbus. Police are continuing their investigation.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported a vandalism and a personal injury.

Probe slaying at Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati police today continued their investigation into the shooting death of a nursing home director who was apparently abducted from near his suburban home and found fatally wounded in a wooded area.

Police said they are investigating the possibility a man and woman were involved in the abduction-robbery killing.

Graber, administrator of Glen Manor Home for Jewish Aged, had just let his wife out of the car at their apartment complex and was parking when apparently confronted, according to authorities.

His car was found abandoned in a garage in Avondale.

Nixon may testify in coverup trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, already a witness at the Watergate cover-up trial through his taped conversations, may be well enough soon to testify in person, his lawyer says.

Meanwhile, the electronic testimony continued today with a recording whose contents have never been disclosed.

Nixon's lawyer, Herbert J. Miller, told U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica Thursday that Nixon might be able to come before the judge in three weeks and "no longer raise the health issue."

Miller said that he would have a prognosis on Nixon's health in that time and that "I'm sure it will be favorable."

In San Clemente, Calif., however, Nixon's spokesman, former White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, said the former chief executive is "not very well," and that his left leg still is swollen with phlebitis.

Armco contributes $6,631

Ziegler also said that Nixon's spirits were sagging as he waited to hear whether he would be called to testify at the trial of his former aides.

Nixon had been subpoenaed by John D. Ehrlichman, his former domestic counselor and a defendant at the criminal conspiracy trial along with H.R. Haldeman, John N. Mitchell, Kenneth W. Parkinson and Robert C. Mardian.

With former presidential counsel John W. Dean III on the witness stand for the third day, prosecutors planned to play a conversation of March 17, 1973, when Dean apparently held his first substantive Watergate discussions with Nixon.

In its transcripts of subpoenaed tapes last April, the Nixon White House released only a small portion of the 35-minute conversation dealing solely with the activities of political prankster Donald H. Segretti and the break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

The recording was one of 64 figuring in the Supreme Court's decision forcing Nixon to release the tapes for the cover-up trial. The ruling was one of the historic events that contributed to his resignation.

After receiving word from Miller about Nixon's possible appearance, Sirica postponed for three weeks a decision on whether the former President should be forced to testify at the trial.

The government, which also subpoenaed Nixon, told Sirica it would not insist on the former President's testimony in the prosecution case. Since the defense testimony is not expected to begin for more than a month, that gave the court time to make a decision.

Sirica asked lawyers to suggest a panel of medical experts to examine Nixon for the court, should the health claim be raised again. He said they also should decide who would pay, because "doctors aren't going to go out there for their health, you know."

Barring complications in the next 10 days, Nixon's lawyers said in an affidavit, the former President's doctor "is of the opinion that a deposition of Mr. Nixon at his home or at a short distance away ... would not present unacceptable risks to Mr. Nixon's health."

The judge, prosecutor and Ehrlichman's lawyers all said, however, they didn't want a deposition.

In a related matter, the Nixon lawyers asked for a restraining order against the Ford administration to prohibit officials from turning over any of some 42 million Nixon administration papers to anyone except the former President.

U.S. District Judge Charles R. Richey will hold a hearing on the matter Monday.

The jury, listening with headphones along with judge, defendants and spectators, heard two tape recordings Thursday — the first time any of the conversations had been played in public. A transcript was given to jurors to help follow the often difficult-to-hear voices.

The first tape was a conversation among Nixon, Haldeman and Dean on Sept. 15, 1972, when E. Howard Hunt, G. Gordon Liddy and the five men arrested in Democratic party headquarters were indicted.

The second was a conversation between Nixon special counsel Charles W. Colson and Hunt, recorded by Colson.

Transcripts of both conversations had been made public previously.

Nixon congratulated Dean for "the way you've handled it" (the Watergate investigation) ... very skillful because Coffee Break...

THE PUBLIC is invited to attend an open house from 7 until 8:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 22 at the Fayette Progressive School in the former Sunnyside Elementary School buildings, S. Fayette Street.

Mrs. Frank Weade, of the Fayette County Board of Mental Retardation, said entertainment will be provided by the students and persons will be given an opportunity to visit classrooms and talk with the school's teachers.

The Fayette County Board of Mental Retardation will hold its regular meeting immediately following the open house and all parents of mentally handicapped students and other persons are welcome to attend.

party faithful in a downtown hotel that stronger support is needed at the local level to work for "a solid Republican vote."

"The members of the party have a duty to present my record to the public and to support the ticket from top to bottom," Perk said.

Meanwhile, both Democratic Gov. John Gilligan and his Republican challenger, former Gov. James Rhodes, campaigned in Cincinnati Thursday.

Gilligan again criticized the former governor for refusing to release information on his income taxes and political contributions, and Rhodes charged that Gilligan has attempted to cover up a "broken promise."

"Candidates must tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth," Gilligan declared. "We have passed the point where we can accept that kind of campaigning."

RAMP INSPECTION — Washington C. H. Fire Chief Joe Denen and city inspector Glenn Tatman examine the new wheelchair ramp installed by the Grace United Methodist Church at the corner of Market and North streets.

Wheelchair ramps installed

Church sets precedent

BY SANDY FOSSON
Record-Herald Staff Writer

The Grace United Methodist Church at the corner of Market and North streets has just recently set a precedent for the city of Washington C. H.

While the church installed new sidewalk along the front and sides of the building, it included three, new wheelchair ramps with the project.

The ramps were the brainchild of the church trustees and were designed to facilitate normal downtown travels for wheelchair-confined people.

The most pronounced ramp is located on the corner of North and Market streets at the front of the church. The other two sloped walks are located at the two alley driveways on the sides of the building.

According to city inspector Glenn Tatman, there are probably 25 wheelchair-confined persons in Fayette County, including Beverly Baer, 421 E. Market St., a member of the church's congregation.

Tatman said he hopes the installation will encourage others to follow suit. "The city is very appreciative of what the church has done and hopes it will entice others to do the same."

"We are hoping that anyone who does plan to build a new sidewalk in the downtown area will think ahead and install wheelchair ramps at his location as well," he added.

Tatman said eventually the city may have wheelchair ramps at each street corner but that city funds would have to determine any action in the future.

The ramps at the church were installed by the Great Oaks Construction Co., of Washington C. H., which poured the sidewalks with funds obtained through the church.

According to Tatman, the idea has perhaps already caught hold because J. O. Garringer, owner of Kaufman's Paint and Wallpaper Store, is installing a ramp at the new Kaufman's Decorating Centre, to be located at the corner of Court and Main streets.

Ford defends pardon timing

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's historic testimony on his pardon for former President Richard M. Nixon has drawn high praise from congressmen for candor, but sharp disagreement on whether he laid the pardon controversy to rest.

Ford assured a House Judiciary subcommittee and a nationwide television audience Thursday "there was no deal, period" for the pardon and said he is convinced he did not grant it too hastily.

Subcommittee members split afterwards on whether Ford's testimony settled the matter, and Chairman William L. Hungate, D-Mo., said the inquiry on the pardon may continue after Congress returns Nov. 18 from its election campaign recess.

Subcommittee Democrats called for more witnesses involved in the pardon consultations, including former White House chief of staff Alexander M. Haig Jr., Ford counsel Philip Buchen and possibly outgoing special Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

Most Republicans agreed with Ford the subcommittee should end the inquiry so the country can "shift our attention from the pursuit of a fallen president to the pursuit of the urgent needs of a rising nation."

"This certainly should be the end of it," said Rep. Robert McClory, R-Ill. "It's time to lay off the President."

But Rep. Bella S. Abzug, D-N.Y., author of one of the formal resolutions of inquiry that Ford appeared to answer, said "this is just a beginning."

Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., contended Ford's testimony "raised more questions than it answered."

It was under Miss Holtzman's questioning, on how Ford could answer the "suspensions raised" in the public mind on whether the pardon was part of a deal, that Ford interrupted to make one of his major points.

"I want to assure you ... and the members of Congress and the American people that there was no deal, period, under no circumstances," he said.

Ford said the first mention ever made to him of a pardon for Nixon came from Haig during a meeting Aug. 1 — nine days before Nixon resigned — at which he said Haig also informed him of upcoming "devastating, even catastrophic" disclosures that might remove Nixon from office.

A Ford pardon for Nixon was one of six alternatives Haig listed, Ford testified. He said Haig did not advocate any of the options.

Ford said he was shocked and stunned by the word that he might be about to become president, and told Haig he would think about what to do overnight.

He said his decision was to do nothing and that he told Haig to make that clear to Nixon because he believed a vice president should take no action that could bring his own elevation to the presidency.

Ford said Haig gave him details on the upcoming "devastating" disclosures of White House tapes on which Nixon gave the go-ahead to try to curb the first FBI investigation into Nixon re-election money involvement in the Watergate burglary.

Ford testified that even though he knew those details he continued to say at press conferences the following weekend that he believed Nixon was innocent of any impeachable offense because he was afraid any change in that position "would lead in the press to conclusions that I now wanted to see the President resign."

Ford testified at the hearing that the House Judiciary Committee's vote of impeachment articles against Nixon was evidence of Nixon's guilt of obstruction of justice in the Watergate burglary. He also testified that Nixon's acceptance of the pardon according to a White House research memorandum

WASHINGTON (AP) — Key Democrats plan to press Congress to override President Ford's veto of what he brands an "unconstitutional and unworkable" bill to amend the Freedom of Information Act.

The bill, overturning a 1973 Supreme Court decision in a secrecy-stamping case and closing what the measure's authors call major loopholes in the law, could adversely affect intelligence secrets and diplomatic relations, Ford said as he vetoed it Thursday.

"The President is demonstrating an arrogance that would be believable if a man holding a mandate from the people occupied the office of the presidency. But it is unbelievable, almost incredible, arrogance for a man whose only mandate came from a single congressional district," said Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., who headed an 11-year drive for the Freedom of Information Act enacted in 1967.

The Supreme Court decided that a president could classify documents basically free of judicial review. This bill would give federal courts power to see if documents were properly classified.

Ford argued that this would mean courts would be allowed to make what amounts to "the initial classification decision in sensitive and complex areas where they have no expertise."

Moss, in a telephone interview from Sacramento, Calif., said, "I would rather trust the courts, and I think their action through the whole unhappy history of Watergate proves that we can place our confidence in the judicial system of this nation."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who headed Senate supporters of the legislation, termed Ford's veto "a distressing new example of the Watergate mentality that still pervades the White House." The bill is "a major effort by Congress to insure that the public's business is carried out in public," Kennedy added, saying he will work for a veto override.

Moss, predicting Congress will override the veto, said there is "no validity to the fears expressed by the President.... He is buying the old line of the intelligence and defense community that all information they have is sacrosanct."

The 1975 Community Chest campaign has reached 43 per cent of its established goal, according to figures released by the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce today.

Pam Landrum, of the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce, secretary-treasurer of this year's Community Chest campaign, announced today that $12,317.65 has been received or pledged toward the 1975 goal of $28,000. To date, the $12,000 figure represents 43 per cent of the goal.

MISS LANDRUM stated that the receipts to date included a mixture of business, industry, employee groups and residential contributions.

She said the largest amount received to date was a $6,631 contribution from the Armco Steel Corporation's Metal Products Division in Washington C.H.

Of the $6,631 amount contributed by the Armco Steel Corp., $1,800 represents the company's contributions, and $4,831 represents the contributions from the plant's 529 employees.

Wiley Witherspoon, 606 Charlotte Court, who conducted the Armco Steel Corp. campaign, stated that 95 per cent of the company's employees participated in this year's Community Chest drive. He said the average contribution was $9.13 per employee.

The Community Chest board of directors will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 22 in the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce office to review the campaign progress, according to Otis R. Hess Jr., Community Chest president.

Contributions from other industries and employee groups are expected to be received shortly.

Approximately 70 per cent ($20,000) of the $28,000 total collected through the Community Chest campaign will remain in Fayette County to benefit 10 participating agencies.

The agencies are the Boy Scouts, the Camp Fire Girls, the Community Activity Fund, the Community Education program, the Girl Scouts, the Mental Health Association, Eymann Park, the Red Cross, the Salvation Army and the Senior Citizens Center.

SIX MORE individuals and businesses have joined the ranks of the Community Chest's Red Feather Club.

Added to the Red Feather Club ranks were Dr. Joseph M. Herbert, the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brownell, Dr. Ralph Gebhart, Otis Hess and the Sears Roebuck Co. The Red Feather Club now has 16 members.

The "Red Feather" status is bestowed on those businesses, industries, individuals and employee groups that contribute $100 or more to the campaign. Each recipient also receives a handsome certificate in recognition of their worthy effort.

Glenn, Perk in head-on debate

By The Associated Press
Cleveland Mayor Ralph Perk, the Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate, said Thursday night he was not referring to the Watergate break-in when he said the nation could be proud of the Nixon administration's record.

Responding to a question during a debate at Akron with John Glenn, his Democratic opponent, Perk said the remark, made while Richard Nixon still was in office, referred to foreign policy and some domestic programs, including revenue sharing.

The two candidates rarely attacked each other in the face-to-face meeting, conducted under a format of five members of a panel questioning each man.

Glenn said this country has not even begun to meet the challenges of the energy problem. Too often, he said, the government has backed into the future without any planning and reacting only to crises.

Perk cited his long service in city hall and as Cuyahoga County auditor as having provided him with the experience to be an effective legislator in Washington.

In Columbus, delegates to the Ohio Republican party's state convention approved a platform calling for tax reforms with no increase in present taxes, spending curbs, more state aid to schools and welfare reform.

Senate Majority Leader Theodore M. Gray and former Rep. Keith McNamara, a member of the committee that drafted the 16-page document, said the platform is one every Republican candidate can use in the closing days of the campaign.

Convention speakers included Sen. Robert Taft Jr., who called for the election of Perk, saying he "offers a great deal of common sense, economy thinking and governmental understanding, valuable qualities that can't be matched by his opponent."

Perk, believed to be running far behind Glenn, told the gathering of you — putting your fingers in the dikes every time that leaks have sprung here and sprung there."

Dean, in turn, assures Nixon that "not a thing will come crashing down to our, our surprise" before the presidential election nearly two months away.

The Colson-Hunt tape was offered in support of the government's claim that the cover-up conspiracy included paying hush money to the Watergate burglars.

Dean testified that Hunt called Colson to seek financial aid for himself and the others. Colson recorded the conversation, then let Dean listen to it and make a tape cassette copy.

Dean said he took his cassette of the conversation to Haldeman and Ehrlichman, who were at Camp David, Md., the presidential retreat. They listened, he said, then told him to go to Mitchell in New York, which he did.

On Thanksgiving Day, Dean testified, Mitchell called him at his parents home in Greenville, Pa., and said "I think, John, you ought to go back to Washington to see that the problems with the defendants are taken care of properly."

Back in Washington, Dean said, "I expressed with Haldeman and Ehrlichman the fact that the (money) demands had reached a new crescendo and that I was not sure the defendants would not wander off the reservation if something were not done."

He said that in a later telephone call Mitchell suggested Dean go to Haldeman and get some of the $350,000 cash fund Haldeman had on hand. The money came from campaign contributions before the April 7, 1972, reporting deadline.

Dean said he asked Haldeman for the money and got authorization to get $40,000 or $70,000 from Haldeman's chief aide, Gordon Strachan. Dean couldn't remember the exact amount.

"Did Mr. Haldeman know the reason this money was being delivered?" Dean was asked.

"Yes, sir."

"What did you tell Haldeman the purpose was?"

"I told him the purpose was to pay the defendants, to keep them on the reservation, meet their demands and keep their commitments."

Sewer bans lifted for some areas

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sewer connection bans by the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency were lifted today at 25 sites throughout the state.

A sewer connection ban prevented additional pollution from being discharged into state waters by prohibiting new sewer connections. The ban was enforced on areas of the state with inadequate or nonexistent sewerage facilities.

"We are encouraged to take this action because it indicates that these communities have shown progress toward achieving compliance with state regulations along with resolving their sewage problems," Ohio EPA Director Ira L. Whitman said.

Sewer connection bans in 27 other communities will remain in effect "until the state is assured that additional connections or extensions to a sewerage system will not add pollution to state waters," Whitman said.

Bans were imposed by the former Ohio Water Pollution Control Board between 1968 and October 1972. When the Ohio EPA came into existence in October 1972, the agency assumed the duties of the control board.

Sewer connection bans were lifted from:

Jackson County, Scioto County Subsewer District No. 3 (Portsmouth), Milan, Lowell, Nevada, Utica, Guernsey County Sewer District No. 7, West Leipsic, Meigs County (Leading Creek Conservancy District), Lithopolis, Wellston, West Union, Bellaire, Broadview Heights, Dalton, Noneman, Madison Township, Williamsburg, on-the-River Subdivision, Circleville, Congress Parkway Industrial Park, Gaslight Village Mobile Home Park, Massillon, Sycamore, Marion, and Huron.

Bans remain in effect in: Buckeye Lake Drainage Area and Special Sanitary District (Licking, Fairfield, and Perry counties), West Logan, Tappers Plains (Meigs County), Chesapeake, Coal Grove, Maysville area (Muskingum County), South Zanesville, Obetz, Oakhurst Knolls, Rrairie Pleasant Sewer District No. 1 (Franklin County), Brookside Estates Subdivision, Franklin County Sewer District No. 5, Briarbank Subdivision (Franklin County), Ridgewood Estates Subdivision, (Franklin County), Grand Lake St. Marys Drainage Area and Special Sanitary District (Mercer and Auglaize Counties), Lucas County Metropolitan Sewer District Jerome Road Plant, Lucas County Metropolitan Sewer District Sylvania Park, Allen County American No. 2 (Phase II), McGuffey, Kalida, Hubbard, Olmstead Falls, Northfield, Columbiana County Sewer District No. 2, Ashtabula County Sewer District No. 2, Delaware County, (Brown, Berlin, Orange Berkshire, Genoa, and Harlem Townships), Batavia, Coventry Estates Subdivision, Guernsey County Sewer District No. 1, and Park Layne Sewer District (Clark County).

Recession signs grow pronounced

WASHINGTON (AP) — While President Ford prescribes anti-inflation medicine for the economy, the symptoms of a recession are growing more pronounced.

The real value of the goods and services churned out by the economy showed the third consecutive quarterly decline.

The face value of the gross national product for July through September rose 8.3 per cent projected at an annual rate, to $1,114.6 billion, the Commerce Department said Thursday. Yet inflation sapped the dollars of 11.5 per cent of their value in the same period, so the real value of the economy's output shrunk by 2.9 per cent.

That left the output just slightly ahead of where it was in 1972. It was the first time since the 1960-61 recession the output dropped in three successive quarters. The most recent recession, that of 1969-70, was marked by only two consecutive quarters of decline.

There are other symptoms, such as a maximum drop of 1.9 per cent in industrial production so far, which are less severe than in the most recent recessions.

Yet even before the latest national product figures came out, Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur F. Burns and other economists dubbed the current economic slump a recession.

The administration's contention, repeated anew by Commerce Secretary Frederick B. Dent and his top economists, is that the decline in the economy's output is the product of isolated quirks. The Arab oil embargo, higher oil prices, overeager stockpiling by industry in anticipation of inflationary price increases and a home building industry staggering under high interest rates are examples.

"It appears to me the economy is actually moving sideways at the current time," said economist James L. Pate.

"We're talking about sideways waffling," said Dent.

Economists such as Leif H. Olsen of New York's First National City Bank argue that inflation's doom already is sealed and the nation "now confronts a decidedly new situation with new and different complications."

Taft announces revenue gains

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Taft Broadcasting Co. has announced a record consolidated net revenue gain of 17.9 per cent or about $9 million for the six-month period ending Sept. 30.

Revenues totaled $57.1 million compared with $48.5 for the same period last year, the company announced Thursday.

The firm's broadcasting group announced profits of $7.9 million, an increase of eight-tenths per cent over last year.

Flood insurance made available

NEW YORK (AP) — Whitehall and Ironton, Ohio, residents can now buy up to $35,000 worth of insurance against property damage due to floods.

The two cities are two of 65 areas in 28 states that have become eligible flood insurance available through the National Flood Insurers Association (NFIA) and local authorized insurance brokers and agencies, the NFIA announced this week.

Damage from flooding is not covered in standard property insurance insurance policies.

Single-family residents in the specified areas of the two Ohio cities can now insure their property up to $35,000. Other types of residences and nonresidential properties can be insured up to $100,000.

programs in the President's economic proposals, Olsen said in a recent speech that the proposed 5 per cent surtax "is illtimed politically — as Mr. Ford himself acknowledged — and it is far worse timed economically."

Dent rejected any notion that the proposed tax increase endangers the economy. "It was not offered to deny purchasing power to the economy, but to redistribute it," he said.

Commerce also reported that starts on new houses edged upward in September by fourtenths of 1 per cent to a level at which 1.120 million units would be built over a year's time.

The figure is off by 55 per cent from the industry's peak activity of 2.509 million units in October 1972, however, and both industry and government officials expect no revival in homebuilding before next year.

Repeating his charge that the administration has failed to provide promised adequate support for schools, Rhodes said the issue is "double taxation" through income and property taxes "and we are not going to turn loose of it."

In a development which could affect the gubernatorial campaign, a federal judge in Toledo rejected Rhodes' request that a deposition he made regarding the Kent State University shootings be kept secret until after the Nov. 5 election.

Rhodes' attorneys had asked that the deposition be kept sealed because "in the heat of a political campaign this matter might easily be lifted out of context and be damaging."

In the deposition, Rhodes denied he ordered the Ohio National Guard to use any force necessary during the 1970 Kent State demonstrations that climaxed in the fatal shooting of four students and the wounding of nine others.

The deposition was taken in connection with civil damage suits filed by the parents of the dead and wounded students.

U.S. District Court Judge Don Young, in denying Rhodes' request, said he recognized the sensitive political issue involved but that did not, in itself, comprise sufficient cause for sealing the deposition.

Rhodes later said his testimony is "direct and speaks clearly to required decisions of the time. I am content that it will be so judged if the people are, in fact, given the opportunity to see it in full context."

He said he opposed having the testimony sealed, but "yielded to the advice of counsel and in deference to the wishes of others involved."

Tony Hall, Democratic nominee for secretary of state, charged in a statement Thursday that the Republican incumbent, Ted W. Brown, "perpetuates outmoded, inefficient and inequitable methods to register Ohio's voters."

He said mismanagement in the office has cost Ohio taxpayers millions of dollars over the past two decades.

"does in effect admit guilt."

Rep. Wiley Mayne, R-Iowa, said he was still convinced Ford should have waited until Nixon was indicted before pardoning him and asked if Ford did not agree he had "acted too hastily."

The President replied that he knew that is the major question in many people's minds, but that after considerations he had concluded he was right to grant the pardon when he did.

He said other people believed he should have waited until Nixon was convicted to grant the pardon, and said he had been advised by Jaworski that that could mean up to a year of public attention on Nixon's trial. Ford said that is what he wanted above all to prevent.

Recess called by Congress until Nov. 18

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is in recess until Nov. 18 after breaking a stalemate with President Ford over cutting off military aid to Turkey.

A compromise on a twice-vetted money bill suspends aid to Turkey Dec. 10, or sooner if Turkey increases its 40,000-man occupation force in Cyprus or sends it any more U.S. "implements of war."

The compromise was worked out after the House failed Thursday for the second time in a week to override Ford's veto of a normally routine funding resolution. The Turkey military aid ban was attached to the resolution.

The House vote on the veto was 161 to 83, two short of the two-thirds majority required to override. The compromise was passed by the House 191 to 33 and in the Senate by voice vote.

Both houses of Congress then closed up shop for a 32-day recess until after the Nov. 5 election, when they will return to tackle unfinished business, including appropriations for several major government departments.

Under the rider, the President can suspend the cutoff until Dec. 10 if he determines this action will assist negotiations between Greece, Turkey and Cyprus for a peaceful settlement of the Cyprus dispute, but "only if, during that time, Turkey shall observe the ceasefire and shall neither increase its forces on Cyprus nor transfer any United States supplied implements of war to Cyprus."

Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., who said he was the author of the "implements of war" language, said it means weapons, aircraft and munitions or any other defense article used, by itself or in combination with other articles, to kill, wound or destroy.

Happy said doing well

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice President-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller's wife, Happy, is given a 90 per cent chance of recovery from the removal of a cancerous breast in an operation similar to that performed three weeks ago on First Lady Betty Ford.

After Mrs. Rockefeller's 3½-hour operation Thursday at Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, her surgeon, Dr. Jerome Urban, said "she recuperated fantastically rapidly."

Urban removed Mrs. Rockefeller's left breast as well as lymph nodes in the left armpit, but he left a major portion of her chest muscle intact. The cancer apparently had not spread and Urban said her chances were "excellent ... as good as one could expect under this condition."

He said she probably would be able to leave the hospital in a week.

Rockefeller told newsmen outside the center after seeing his wife that "I feel much relieved. The day's ending better than it started — better than a number of days."

Rockefeller had summoned reporters to his Manhattan offices just as his wife's surgery was starting.

"You won't believe what I'm going to tell you," he said, tracing the events leading up to the operation.

He said the removal Sept. 28 of Mrs. Ford's right breast in cancer surgery had prompted his wife to give her own breasts a self-examination, and she discovered a suspicious lump.

A breast X-ray gave suspicious, but inconclusive results. Dr. Urban advised Mrs. Rockefeller, 48, to enter the hospital Wednesday. Further tests led to the surgery, and doctors found three cancerous nodules about the size of the tip of a little finger in the breast and its surrounding tissue.

320 workers off at RCA division

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — "Continuing softness in the semiconductor market" has forced the layoff of 320 production, engineering and administrative personnel here, the Radio Corporation of America's solid state division announced Thursday.

The layoffs took effect today, according to plant manager Joseph Spoon.

The plant had employed 2,300.

Stock list on upside

NEW YORK (AP) — Reports of a large inflow of petro-dollars into short-term U.S. securities and a prime rate cut by two major banks boosted stock prices higher in early trading today.

The Dow Jones industrial average was up almost a point and advances broadly led declines on the New York Stock Exchange.

Helping the market was First National City Bank's and Chemical Bank of New York's early announcements of a ¼ percentage point reduction in their minimum corporate borrowing fee to 11¼ per cent, the third consecutive weekly decline in the key rate.

And the Federal Reserve system reported heavy purchases of short-term securities apparently from oil-producers, totaling as much as $729 million yesterday.

Active stocks in early trading included Joy Manufacturing, up ½ to 33, Louisiana Land and Exploration, ahead ½ to 24 and Citicorp, parent company of First National City Banks, up ½ to 28. Houseon Light & Power was unchanged at 26¼, and Pittston was unchanged at 31¾.

Thursday the stock market turned up after some profit-taking losses earlier in the week. Glammers and blue chips led the list of moderate gains.

Rating code eyed for television

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The head of the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) suggested Thursday that the television industry may adopt a rating code similar to that used by film-makers in dealing with controversial and sensitive programming.

He said controversial 4 programs and films containing sensitive films or violence could be presented if proper precautions were taken.

Opinion And Comment

A WORD EDGEWISE By John P. Roche

The 'three-letter' operation

Back around Aug. 20, when I was vacationing on Martha's Vineyard, there arrived in the mail a most remarkable document. It was a White House press release of a conversation between Henry Jackson, Jacob Javits and Abraham Ribicoff had held with President Ford and Secretary of State Kissinger. The first thing that struck me about it was the passive put-down of Kissinger; from the Senators' comments, one got the impression that the President was running, with the ball, overruling his Secretary's position that attaching emigration conditions to the Soviet trade bill was an unfortunate intrusion into the internal affairs of the U.S.S.R. The second was that the three Senators seemed convinced that President Ford's intervention would make a compromise possible. Since Jackson, Javits and Ribicoff are hardly barefoot innocents, the President must have made a convincing case.

Now the whole business has come unglued, and the fascinating question is: Who set up whom? For the benefit of late arrivals, let me recapitulate the bidding. The scenario was to run as follows: Jackson and his associates would eliminate the mandatory language, requiring freedom of emigration as a quid pro quo for "most favored nation" trade status, under the condition that the President would send Jackson a letter stating Soviet willingness to relax restrictions. Then Jackson would write Mr. Ford a letter stating his "understanding" that this meant a minimum of 60,000 exit visas. Finally, the President would write "Scoop" and say everybody was on the same wavelength.

The reason for this elaborate charade was, of course, that the Soviets won't go on the record at all. But implicit in the behavior of the President (who is an old Congressional hand) and the three Senators was a hard assumption that Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin had assured Secretary Kissinger that the 60,000 figure was acceptable, on an informal basis, to Moscow. At this point we go off the map: Senator Jackson has been informed that the third letter will not be arriving. What happened?

Having played soccer without a helmet for years (and more than once being put in traction after heading a ball badly), I do not put much weight on former President Johnson's evaluation of President Ford's intelligence. (I have never been attracted by Ford's conservative views, but that's a different matter.) For openers, then, I assume that Ford would never deliberately sandbag three leading members of the Senate. Thus, when they had the breakfast meeting in August, the President must have believed the "three letter" operation would work. The presence of Secretary Kissinger at the breakfast indicates that if he then had any reservations he kept them to himself. (I have reason to believe that the Secretary of State endorsed the proposal wholeheartedly.)

However, according to the latest stories, our old friends "high State Department sources" and "those familiar with Secretary Kissinger's views" are running around Washington saying that the Soviets never made a flat promise, the Kissinger always hedged his bets, and the like. The Soviets, always helpful, agree that no hard commitment was made. Curiously, I believe them.

Which leaves us with two alternative explanations, neither very complimentary to Secretary Kissinger. First, it is possible that the Soviets, back in August, conned Kissinger into thinking they had made a solid commitment, and on this basis he launched President Ford on the compromise route. Or, second, Secretary Kissinger was convinced that his immense persuasiveness would bring the Soviets around and converted this hope into an alleged fact. He has something of a record for autohypnosis — recall "peace is at hand"? — but misleading the President and three eminent Senators is an offense of a different order.

President Ford needs protection from incidents such as this. Again, let me urge that he put his own man in as National Security Adviser with precise instructions to nail Kissinger down on everything. Without for a moment suggesting the Secretary is dishonest, he is simply incapable of formulating American foreign policy, running the State Department, and playing Presidential watchdog over the formulation and operation of foreign policy.

Do not conclude a matter before all facts are known or a full chance for research given. You might be tricked into inaccurate moves if not wary.

Letter To The Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

This letter is in reference to the article published in your paper Saturday, Oct. 12 concerning the dismissal of a DWI case by Judge John P. Case for lack of jurors.

I strongly agree with the judge that jurors are of the utmost importance to our judicial system and that jury duty is one of the greater rights and duties of the American citizen but I take personal offense at his insinuation that the entire fault for the lack of jurors falls upon John Q. Public.

On Tuesday, Oct. 8 at about 9:20 a.m. I stopped by our Post Office to pick up the mail and found I had a summons for jury duty which stated that I was to report to the Municipal Court at 9:30 a.m. Oct. 8. Here I am in my old blue jeans, sweat shirt and sneakers. My washer and dryer were running at home. I had three planned activities for the day and I now have the total of 10 minutes to get from Bloomington to Washington C.H. My first thought was "How can I possibly get there?" My second thought was "what is the penalty for not getting there?"

I showed my postal card summons to the postmistress who examined it and found that though the card had been mailed from Washington C.H. on the Thursday prior to the Tuesday I was to appear it bore an incorrect zip code and had been sent to Bloomington in lieu of Washington. I then returned to my home and immediately called the office of the clerk of courts and was told that I should standby and if I were needed I would be called before noon. As a housewife this was not too inconvenient for me even though it required that I cancel my plans for the day and sit and wait for a phone call which never came. However, had I been a person who worked to support a family it would have constituted an impossible situation.

Although I realize that the circumstances in my summons would be rare it leaves me room to wonder if similar conditions existed with those 40 some calls made for last Friday's jurors. It is undoubtedly frustrating to the judge as well as the law enforcement officers involved to see a case dismissed solely for the lack of jurors. I feel certain however that it is just as frustrating for the average law abiding citizen to be called on short notice and have to ask to be excused for some cause or other.

Therefore, I would suggest that before the judge takes the harsh step he hinted of charging future jurors who do not show up with contempt of court or even gives us 40 more lashes with his tongue or pen that he investigate the possibility of a revision in the court's system of notification of jurors and implements an early warning system in order that we can plan to meet our responsibility to the court.

Ohio Perspective

GOP is studying strength in state

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—"Outside of northeastern Ohio and Toledo, we do very well in the state."

That was the assessment of Republican strength in Ohio given by GOP State Chairman Kent McGough. "Most of western Ohio" from Cincinnati up through the northwest corner of the state is Republican country, McGough said.

Central Ohio, including Columbus, also traditionally has been fertile ground for the GOP, while McGough pictures the southeastern part of the state as "mixed but generally Republican."

His appraisals are borne out by the results of the 1970 gubernatorial election when Gov. John J. Gilligan captured more than 53 per cent of the vote in a contest against then-state auditor Roger Cloud.

Cloud won 54 counties to Gilligan's 34, but the governor piled up big margins in the densely populated urban centers of Cleveland, Akron, Youngstown, Toledo and Dayton. Cloud scored heavily in many small rural areas.

But, Gilligan, who is from Cincinnati, lost Hamilton County by about 41,000 votes. And he didn't do much better in surrounding southwestern Ohio areas, losing by big margins in Warren, Clermont, Clinton, Highland and Butler counties.

Cloud won in Columbus by only 9,000

votes compared to the elephantine 79,000-plus edge by former Gov. James A. Rhodes over Democrat Frazier Reams in 1966.

Cloud beat Gilligan in all of the counties circling Columbus, although the edge was only 338 votes of more than 32,000 cast in Licking. Rhodes won there by more than 8,000 votes in 1966.

In Logan County, northwest of the capital, Cloud won by an impressive 4,000 votes of the 12,000 cast.

Just north of Logan is Allen County and the city of Lima, McGough's home. He described Allen "as one of the strong Republican counties in the state over the years."

Farther north in Hancock County, Cloud won by 3,500 votes of the 18,500 ballots cast.

It will be crucial for Rhodes' chances to hold Republican ground in Cincinnati while repeating his wide 1966 margin in Columbus.

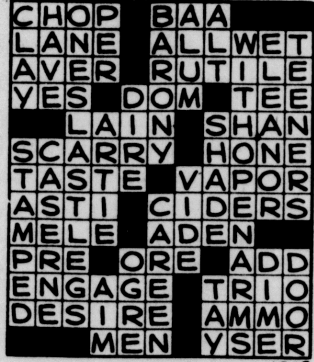

In a recent interview at Republican headquarters in Columbus, reporters asked McGough if Watergate was likely to cause any chinks in Republican armor.

"Our polls show that Watergate is going to have a minimal effect," he said. "I don't say it won't have an effect. I think you'll be seeing voter disillusionment. I think it could rub off on both sides."

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Wants no wheels at her wedding

DEAR ABBY: I am being married soon. My fiancé's favorite brother, who was asked to be our best man, has just undergone his third operation. He will be out of the hospital in time for our wedding, but he'll be in a wheel chair for several months.

My fiancé insists that his brother be in the wedding party, wheelchair or no wheelchair.

Abby, there will be over 500 people at the wedding and reception. I'm having a professional photographer take pictures of the whole thing—even movies—and I just know that wheelchair will ruin everything. IMAGINE, THE BEST MAN GOING DOWN THE AISLE IN A WHEELCHAIR! I'm afraid people will laugh.

Please don't get me wrong, Abby. I love my future brother-in-law and am sorry for what he's had to go through, but I think someone else should take his place as best man. Am I wrong for wanting everything to be perfect?

PHOENIX BRIDE

DEAR BRIDE: If by "perfect" you mean appearances over the feelings of your fiancé and his favorite brother, you are indeed wrong.

A best man in a wheelchair (or for that matter, ANY member of the wedding in a wheelchair) is not unique in the annals of wedding ceremonies. And it's not apt to be laughed at.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 13-year-old girl. I'm writing this for my brother (he's 12) and myself because we both have the same problem. It's our father.

He refuses to take a vacation. Dad says he can't spare the time. He's in the insurance business and he makes a good living, but what good is the money if he works himself to death? Mom is a housewife. We live in a nice home in the suburbs, have two cars, nice clothes and my brother and I go to a good camp.

Mom and Dad haven't had a vacation together since they've been married. Other families take a vacation every year. All our dad knows is work. Is there some way we can get him to take a vacation?

We're not asking for a trip ourselves. We'd be happy if he took Mom and went someplace for a rest. Can you solve our problem?

MILWAUKEE KIDS

DEAR KIDS: You might tell Dad that because you love him you want him to live a long time, so he'd better take care of his health. Being in the insurance business he knows that all work and no play may make a lot of jack, but it also makes Jack a poor insurance risk.

DEAR ABBY: Sixteen years ago I read a letter in your column urging readers to remove the doors from stored and abandoned iceboxes and refrigerators so children couldn't crawl into them and become accidentally trapped. (You called them "potential coffins.")

I remembered that letter so vividly because the year before, I had lost a precious four-year-old grandson in such a senseless accident. Following his death, his mother (my daughter-in-law) had psychiatric treatment for a year to overcome her recurring nightmares and feelings of guilt.

I read the same warning in your column three more times over the years.

Yesterday I read a small item in our local newspaper. A seven-year-old girl, who had been missing for 12 hours, was found dead in an abandoned icebox stored in the basement of a playmate's home. During a game of hide and seek, the child had crawled into the icebox, was trapped, and eventually died of suffocation.

Abby, will you please warn your readers again? It may save a young life.

GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: I will. But most people are strange. They think the weird things about which they read can never happen to them.

Today In History

Today is Friday, Oct. 18, the 291st day of 1974. There are 74 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1867, the United States took formal possession of Alaska from Russia.

On this date — In 1540, the Spanish explorer, Hernando de Soto, was fighting Indians in southern Alabama.

In 1767, the boundary line between Maryland and Pennsylvania — the Mason-Dixon Line — was agreed upon.

In 1898, the American flag was raised over Puerto Rico shortly before the island was ceded to the United States by Spain.

In 1892, the first commercial long-distance telephone service began between New York and Chicago.

In 1944, in World War II, Soviet troops invaded Czechoslovakia.

In 1971, Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin was attacked by a demonstrator on the Canadian Parliament grounds in Ottawa but was unhurt. Ten years ago: Former President Herbert Hoover was reported in critical condition in his suite at the Waldorf Towers in New York.

Five years ago: Federal officials ordered a halt in production of food and soft drinks containing cyclamates after new evidence that the artificial sweetener had caused cancer in animals.

"—But what about all the trees they chopped down to make paper for your twelve books on saving our environment?"

Catholics may join Masons

By GEORGE CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Roman Catholic laymen, barred from belonging to Masonic lodges for more than two centuries, now may do so without church objections so long as the particular lodge doesn't foster anti-Catholicism.

That's the interpretation put by U.S. Catholic leadership on a recent letter from the Vatican's office on doctrinal matters.

The step comes after several years of exploratory friendly gestures between some American Catholic leaders and Masonic groups, chiefly sessions arranged by the Rev. John A. O'Brien of the University of Notre Dame.

Father O'Brien, recently hospitalized with a stroke, became the first Catholic priest to speak at a Masonic meeting in 1964 in South Bend, Ind., and afterward took part in similar conciliatory gatherings in the rising ecumenical mood of the period, saying:

"We're all children of the same Father, and it's about time that we put our brotherhood into practice." Freemasonry, an international fraternal order open to all believers in God, includes about 4 million Masons in this country, with lodges in each state operating under an independent, statewide grand lodge.

Although some Catholics previously have been members, despite the broad church prohibition against it, the new ruling limits application of the ban only to cases in which a specific lodge opposes the church.

The letter, from the Vatican's Cardinal Franjo Seper, says that the church's canon 2335 still stands, subjecting Catholics to excommunication if they join Masonic or other associations which "plot" against the church.

But he adds that it may be given a "strict interpretation," that is, applied only in instances of specific lodges where such anti-Catholicism exists.

The ban against Catholic membership first was imposed by Pope Clement XII in 1738 on grounds that Freemasonry fostered vague, naturalistic religion, and involved secret oaths and conspiracy against Catholicism.

Over the years, there has been a succession of papal condemnations, proscribing Catholic participation.

A statement from John Cardinal Krol, of Philadelphia, president of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, says the Vatican letter makes clear that the longstanding prohibition is not equally applicable to all Masonic groups.

As the letter indicates, he says, the "canonical provision concerning excommunication is to be interpreted precisely, not broadly, in the light of the actual attitude and practice of a particular Masonic or other group."

However, he said the letter shows that the "church continues to discourage Catholic membership in the Masons," and to excommunicate those joining societies that are "actively hostile to the church."

Standard Oil out of pipeline group

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Standard Oil Co. of Ohio has withdrawn from a group considering a pipeline to carry natural gas from Alaska's North Slope, board Chairman Charles E. Spahr said Thursday.

Sohio has an agreement that Columbia Gas Co. will purchase most of Sohio's gas from the region, Spahr said.

Columbia, which distributes gas in Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland and Kentucky, continues as a member of the group considering the pipeline.

Mrs. Puffenberger honored with layette gifts

On Tuesday afternoon Fellowship Hall of Grace Church was the setting for a baby shower for the Puffenberger baby whose appearance is a much anticipated event of late November.

Mrs. Allen Puffenberger was pleased by the large number of women of the church honoring her and Pastor Puffenberger by wanting to participate in providing a lavish welcome for a new member of the family. Gifts ranged from a wide assortment of pretty clothes, hand-knitted and crocheted blankets and booties, toys, baby food, "Pampers", through money for the baby's bank account. There were even gifts from a number of friends not able to come that afternoon.

Some 50 women watched as Mrs. Puffenberger, assisted by her very interested pre-school daughter, Angela, unwrapped gaily wrapped packages on a long table which was centered with a vase of beautiful Peace roses. Mrs. Puffenberger graciously expressed her appreciation to each person in turn, and there was much laughing and comment as the unwrapping progressed through the hour.

Then following the shower, all participants were invited to an attractive tea table centered with a large paper stork balancing on one leg. The napkin motif carried out the stork theme. Dishes of nuts, mints, a bountiful supply of delicious homemade tea cookies and at one end a wonderfully refreshing pink punch. Pink tapers completed the setting.

The afternoon ended then in the enjoyment of refreshments and visiting.

Class observes 45th b'day

Fifteen members and one guest, Mrs. Gene Smith, a former member but now living in Pickerington, assembled in the parlor of the First Presbyterian Church, for the 45th birthday of the Marguerite Sunday School Class. Various bowls of flowers decorated the room and a vase of blue and white carnations was given to Mrs. Marguerite Jenkins, class teacher, at the close of the meeting.

Mrs. P. M. Cook, substitute teacher, had charge of the devotions and read several verses from 1st Corinthians, containing passages of love, devotion and loyalty, applying these verses to the members who had all been so faithful to their class these many years. She closed with a beautiful prayer.

Mrs. William Rogers, president, held a short business meeting. Reports were read and approved and it was announced that the shipment of pecans would probably be received by the end of the month. Any one wishing pecans may call the class members. Plans were made for the Christmas party to be held December 10th, more details later.

Mrs. Jenkins had brought old pictures taken of the class members many years ago, also old secretary books dating from 1941 to 1959, many amusing events were recalled and discussed. She also gave a most interesting account of her recent trip to Germany, and showed pictures of old castles and ruins, and beautiful churches and old cathedrals, that she has visited.

The group was then invited to the tea table, covered with a lace cloth over a blue lining and centered with a silver bowl containing fruit and a large blue candle. The refreshments also carried the blue and silver color scheme, individual birthday cakes with blue candles, blue and silver nut cups and salad.

The hostesses for this delightful evening were Mrs. Kenneth Arnold, Mrs. Dorothy Dellinger and Mrs. Kenneth Craig.

Man bound to grand jury in shotgun theft case

A Washington C.H. man was bound over to the Fayette County Common Pleas Court grand jury while a charge against a brother in the same case was dismissed by Acting Judge John P. Case during hearings in Municipal Court.

5 policemen in city dispute

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Half of suburban Montgomery's 10-man police force was suspended by Mayor Robert Novak Thursday, then reinstated 11 hours later.

Novak said he took the action against the five veteran policemen because they violated department regulations against speaking publicly on police matters without the chief of police's permission.

The five have attempted to negotiate with city officials on wages, hours and working conditions.

Novak said negotiations must be "undertaken in good faith and not in the glare of publicity."

'Gifts for Yanks' program set

Members of the Paul H. Hughey Post 25, American Legion in Washington C.H. have joined with hundreds of other Ohio American Legion posts to help make Christmas memorable for hospitalized veterans by collecting funds for the annual "Gifts for Yanks Who Gave" program.

This is the 23rd consecutive year the Ohio American Legion is pooling funds from state posts for gifts and activities to benefit veterans in 16 state hospitals, five Veterans Administration hospitals and the Soldiers and Sailors home at Sandusky.

The program's name is the same as the one initiated by comedian Eddie

Canter during World War II.

"THIS EFFORT is not limited to members of the legion," stated Henry C. Litz, commander of the American Legion Post 25. "We welcome contributions from individuals and business establishments to help finance the statewide program costing over $68,000.

Contributions may be sent to Fred Allen Jr., American Legion Post 25, Washington C.H.

In addition to distributing more than 5,000 cartons of tax-free cigarettes to veterans, the Ohio American Legion also is contributing $10,000 to the five gift shops operated at Veterans Hospitals in order that patients may select gifts to send their families, and more than $40,000 for the purchase of canteen books for VA patients.

Televisions, radios and other electronic equipment for the VA hospitals and the Soliders and Sailors home are also provided again this year from the program funds, Litz said.

The fund will also spend over $15,000 on other than Christmas activities for VA and state hospital patients.

Gilligan taxes lashed by Rhodes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Former Gov. James A. Rhodes sketched a picture of Ohio Republicans Thursday night of schools in turmoil and double taxation for citizens under Democratic Gov. John J. Gilligan.

Rhodes was the final speaker at an all-day state Republican convention that saw the party faithful rally behind his campaign for governor against Gilligan.

The convention approved a state platform calling for tax reform with no increase in present taxes, spending cuts, more state money for schools and welfare reform.

Those were the subjects on Rhodes' mind as he talked for 45 minutes to delegates in a broad-based attack on the Gilligan administration.

Rhodes said "Gilligan must double the (state) income tax" to deliver on his campaign promises. And he said Ohioans were already paying "double taxes" because of the real estate tax.

As it is, Rhodes said, too much emphasis is placed on the real estate tax to fund public schools in the state. He said there were 300 tax levies on the November ballot in school districts that were short of operating money.

"Let me assure you," he told the 1,200 or so delegates, "as governor of this state, education is going to get more money."

Rhodes said if Gilligan was not going to give enough state money to schools that "he should cut the income tax."

Neither Rhodes, nor the new platform, proposed repeal of the income tax.

Under the present governor, Rhodes said, "We have had more turbulence, more turmoil...than we've ever had in the history of our schools."

The former two-term governor said Gilligan, and not local officials, must take full responsibility for the state welfare program which he termed a "disaster."

Many of the broadsides, as Rhodes readily admitted, had been hurled earlier by other statewide candidates who damned Democrats while exhorting Republicans work harder in a campaign in which many of their candidates are believed to be trailing.

One of those underdogs, Cleveland Mayor Ralph Perk, got a boost for his U.S. Senate candidacy from Sen. Robert Taft, who said he wanted to "clear up a misunderstanding" in the press that he was pessimistic about Perk's chances.

"While Perk is definitely an underdog because of the publicity and large campaign resources of his opponent (John Glenn) he can win if we get the voters to relate their choice to national needs and issues," Taft said.

Perk had earlier demanded stronger Republican support for his campaign, saying party members "have a duty to present my record to the public and to support the ticket from top to bottom."

Disaster relief set for county victims

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners and the Fayette County Welfare Department are cooperating with the Disaster Services of Ohio in distributing disaster relief applications to local families who were victims of the April tornado.

The local Department of Welfare office in the county Courthouse annex will be open Oct. 23-24 from 12 to 8 p.m. to accept applications from disaster victims who may be eligible for individual and family grants under the Disaster Relief Act of 1974.

According to welfare director O. M. Riegel and commissioner Robert Mace, the program was set up to aid Ohio victims of last spring's tornadoes. Approximately six to eight Fayette County residents may be eligible for aid after an April tornado ripped through several mobile homes in the area.

Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan said the Disaster Relief Act authorizes state and federal funds for the purpose of making grants to meet disaster-related necessary expenses.

The program is specifically designed to provide help to those disaster victims whose needs cannot be met through an existing program or other form of assistance.

Application centers in Xenia and Cincinnati have already administered to many of the needs of tornado victims in those areas.

The maximum grant or aggregation of grants to any individual or family has been set at $5,000. However, the dollar amount of any specific grant will be limited to those expenditures determined eligible under the program.

The disaster victim must demonstrate that despite the assistance received or applied for under available programs, there remain necessary expenses or serious needs which have not been met, in order to qualify for a grant.

Fine, suspended jail term meted in court

A 31-year-old Washington C. H. man was fined $125 and a Sabina woman had a 30-day jail sentence suspended by acting Judge John P. Case Thursday in Municipal Court.

James Evans, 704 Church St., was fined $125 and sentenced to 30 days in jail after he pleaded guilty to a charge of felonious assault filed on a private warrant.

Judge Case suspended 26 days of the sentence pending one year good conduct and credited Evans with the four days already served in jail for the remainder of the sentence.

Rose Potts, 59, of Sabina, pleaded guilty to a charge of theft of a Cricket lighter from Buckeye Mart store in the Washington Square Shopping Center. Judge Case suspended a 30-day jail sentence providing one year good conduct.

In traffic cases heard Thursday by Judge Case, Jerry D. Tuttle, 18, Ohio 753, was fined $20 after pleading no contest to having an unsafe bumper height on his auto.

Tuttle's automobile had a back bumper which measured 18 inches from the ground to the bottom of the bumper, while the safe measurement is 12.8 inches for the make of auto.

Those forfeiting bonds were: Jefferson L. Pollock, 21, of 1225 High St., $25, failure to drive on the right half of the roadway; Vickie J. Beekman, 22, of 134 N. Oakland Ave., $35, speed; Randle G. Money, 28, Guernsey, $25, failure to yield to oncoming traffic; Gary Williamson, 18, Greenfield, $25, speed; and Russell C. Grooms, 21, Rt. 6, $25, unsafe bumper height.

SING ALONG — Children at the Fayette Christian School sing "Jesus Loves Me" with teacher Mrs. Denny Howard during an early morning session.

Children learn at early age at Christian school

By SANDY FOSSON
Record-Herald Staff Writer
The Fayette Christian School operates under the belief that children are ready to learn at an early age.

The idea is not a new one and the 14 children enrolled in the first and only Christian private school in Fayette County are between the ages of three and five.

HOWEVER, these pre-school and kindergarten children are being taught not only the alphabet and numbers, but they are also learning phonic sounds and how to count and read.

According to Mrs. Denny Howard, the pre-school teacher at the school, the curriculum is similar to the popular television educational program for children, "Sesame Street," but is called "A Beka Publications", designed by Dr. Arlis Horton, of Pensacola, Fla.

In the curriculum, the children learn by playing games. The school is classified as a Day-Care Center, but as Mrs. Howard said, "It doesn't need to be all playtime. The children are ready to learn and reading is very important."

In the non-denominational school begun by the Fayette Bible Church, 1315 Dayton Ave., where the classes are held from 9 a.m. until noon, are 10 pre-school children and four kindergarten students.

The pre-school class, which meets three times a week, is taught the alphabet and numbers and are required to write once a week.

The kindergarten class meets every day of the week. They print each day and learn beginning reading.

The Rev. Denny Howard, pastor of the Fayette Bible Church, is the administrator at the school. While Mrs. Howard teaches the pre-schoolers, Mrs. Don Wald instructs the kindergarten class. Neither are certified teachers, but are qualified for preliminary license by the state.

Mrs. Howard said because the school was termed a "Day-Care Center" they did not need teacher certification, with inspection under the Ohio Health and Welfare Board rather than the Ohio Board of Education.

However, the school is planning to include a first and second grade in its courses next year and will be required to meet Ohio Board of Education standards, including certified teachers, said Mrs. Howard.

BECAUSE the school is under a Christian framework, the children are given a specific Bible time three days a week to learn a Bible story that has been applied to their lives.

"Our learning is related to God and we must learn to do the best in school," Mrs. Howard said. "Education is not only physical, emotional and mental but also spiritual and must emphasize all four."

Mrs. Howard said the school is self-supporting by operating from funds received through contributions and tuition.

Seek blood replacement

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Classmates and friends of a 17-year-old boy who died last week of a rare blood disorder have launched a drive for blood to help his family.

Michael Allen Doctor's parents were forced to put their home up for sale to pay for the 800 points of blood he needed to fight Fanconi's anemia, a disease that attacks the blood-producing bone marrow.

The day he died, Oct. 9, about two dozen of his classmates at Scarlet Oaks

Career Development Campus, began the drive to replace the blood.

Since most of the students were under 18, they could not donate their own blood, but they have spurred a massive drive to help the suburban Montgomery family.

Michael was a senior enrolled in chef's training at Scarlet Oaks and had told his parents he wanted to live long enough to become a chef.

As his health waned, classmates wheeled him to and from classes in a wheelchair built at the school.

Rhodes denies ordering force

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Former Gov. James A. Rhodes claims in a statement to be filed today in federal court in Toledo that former Ohio Adj. Gen. Sylvester Del Corso told newsmen the day before the 1970 Kent State shootings he (Del Corso) was ready to use any force necessary to quell student unrest on the campus.

But Rhodes adds in the incomplete deposition obtained by The Plain Dealer that he didn't grasp what he heard.

In the deposition, Rhodes denies that he ordered the Ohio National Guard to use any force necessary during the series of demonstrations that culminated in the May 4 shootings which left four students dead and nine wounded.

The deposition was taken Oct. 3-4 in connection with civil damage suits arising from the shootings. The deposition was continued to November after Rhodes pleaded ill health.

Rhodes' attorneys sought to have the document kept secret until after the Nov. 5 election in which he is the Republican candidate for governor, but a U.S. District judge in Toledo denied the request Thursday.

The deposition was in the hands of a Cleveland court reporter Thursday, pending filing in Toledo.

Former National Guard spokesman Michael W. Delaney has charged Rhodes said he came to the campus to take charge of guardsmen he ordered there, but the former governor has denied it.

Rhodes also directed that whatever force necessary be used to break up student gatherings and that he didn't want even two students walking together.

Del Corso's statement came May 3, the day before the shootings and the day after demonstrators burned the Reserve Officers Training Corps building on campus, Rhodes says.

"I'll be right behind with the National Guard to give our full support, anything that is necessary like the Ohio law says, use any force that is necessary even to the point of shooting," the former governor says the general told newsmen.

Rhodes adds that "things at the press conference were moving fast and I don't think that I grasped everything that I did hear, that I grasped any of these words."

Rhodes' attorney refused to let the former governor answer a cross-examination question about whether Rhodes' "failure to say anything was tantamount to a tacit endorsement of the general's remarks."

Rhodes' attorney contended the question went to the point of the case and that the issue was not to be decided by Rhodes as a witness.

Rhodes also says in the statement that he never took over for his adjutant general and always acted on advice of Rhodes' chief legal adviser, John McElroy.

McElroy also is a defendant in the suits filed by parents of the shooting victims and others.

Armstrong honored by broadcasters

MASON, Ohio (AP)—Neil A. Armstrong, first man to set foot on the moon, was honored by the Ohio Association of Broadcasters Thursday for his service to his country, accomplishments in space and devotion to his home state.

The former astronaut, a native of Wapakoneta and now on the faculty at the University of Cincinnati, was presented the association's 10th annual achievement award during an OAB meeting at Kings Island.

The award, presented by Gov. John Gilligan, noted Armstrong's more than 25 years of distinguished service and "the cause for pride he has provided people everywhere."

Armstrong, in a brief acceptance talk, quipped that perhaps his greatest interest in his televised moon walk in 1969 was "not the quality of the program but the fact that we did it on location."

Walter E. Bartlett, senior vice president-television for Avco Broadcasting Corp., headquartered in Cincinnati, was presented the association's 10th annual "Broadcaster of the Year" award.

The citation noted Bartlett's career of more than 20 years and said he "has brought great credit to the broadcasting industry in Ohio."

Indiana Gov. Otis R. Bowen addressed the luncheon gathering, a joint meeting of the OAB and Indiana Broadcasters Association, and called for improved dialogue between public officials and journalists.

He said a growing strain in the relationships between public officials and the media presents a "substantial risk that the public will 'tune out' both sides."

Bowen said he was not suggesting that either side retreat from its duties, "but if either is to discharge its responsibilities to the public...we will have to seek as much common ground as possible."

Walkout idles 1,000 at Youngstown plant

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — A strike prompted by firing of a union steward has idled nearly 1,000 workers at Commercial Shearing, Inc., a union spokesman said Thursday.

The strike began Wednesday over dismissal of a steward of United Steelworkers Local 2332 who reportedly failed to meet production quotas in an incentive job, the union said.

Union members charged that supervisory personnel were harassing workers to complete more work than was physically possible.

Richard Fenton, Bill Fenton and R.B. McCoy, 15 years; Howard Barney, Jess Crago, Wilbur Hoppes and Robert Newell, 16 years; John Junk and Meade Noble, 17 years; Jim Hagler, 18 years; Ned Abbott, Joe Bonham, Willard Bonham, Jack Hoppes, Sony Johnson, Mark King, Paul Pope, Charles Shaper and Tom Souther, 19 years, and Ray Warner, 29 years.

Receiving perfect attendance awards from the International Lions Club were Arthur Barton Jr., 10 years, and James Braun, Harold W. Fenton and Richard S. Fenton, 15 years.

It was announced the annual pancake and sausage supper will be held Nov. 9 in Wayne Township Hall. Good Hope Lions Club members are also selling fruit cakes.

The WSCS, under the direction of Mrs. Eugene Thompson, served the meal. There were five guests from the Wilmington Lions Club and eight from the Frankfort club.

Undefeated Lions in non-league tilt

Time running out for contenders

BY LARRY WATTS
Record-Herald Sports Editor
Entering the seventh night of football, time is running out for the South Central Ohio League teams in preventing Washington Court House from capturing their second consecutive championship.
The Lions, who lead the loop with a perfect 3-0 mark, will be involved in a non-league contest while the remainder of the teams will be battling each other. Every SCOL squad, except for Court House has at least one loss in league competition.
Court House followers will be especially hoping from some help from Wilmington, Unioto and Hillsboro this week. All three teams, having already lost two games in the league, will be the underdogs in their games tonight.

MIAMI TRACE AT WILMINGTON
Miami Trace, 1-1 in the league and 4-2 overall, will be out to break the Wilmington jinx this evening. Only in 1971, when the Panthers had a perfect 10-0 record, was Miami Trace able to defeat the Hurricanes on the gridiron.

Jackie Watson, the flashy Wilmington halfback, has been the key to the Hurricanes' offense this season. Wilmington leads the SCOL runners in rushing, rushing average and points scored. In six games he has carried the ball 89 times for 652 yards and a 7.33 average. Watson has totaled 76 points.
To counter Wilmington's offensive punch, Miami Trace will be tossing fullback Jeff Sagar and quarterback Tom Riley at the Hurricanes. In scoring 56 points, Sagar has carried the ball 98 times for 620 yards and a 6.33 average. In addition to carrying the ball 62 times for 321 yards, Riley has also connected on 28 of 55 passes for 340 yards.
Added punch in the Miami Trace backfield will come from Rex Coe, who has been filling in for injured Tom Pfaff at halfback. Coe has been a pleasant surprise to coach Fred Zechman and his crew as he has carried the ball 13 times for 104 yards in two league games.

Both the Panthers and Hurricanes are coming off heartbreaking losses last week. Miami Trace was nipped by Circleville 14-12 and Wilmington, now 3-3 for the year and 1-2 in the SCOL, fell 14-10 to Court House.
HILLSBORO AT GREENFIELD
This marks the Tigers' sixth and final home football game for this season. With a victory, Greenfield, which is 4-2 in the league and 2-1 in the SCOL, will be at least assured of an even season.
Hillsboro has been having its problems putting it together this year. The Indians, who are 2-4 overall and 0-2 in the league, have given up nearly 30 points per game.
One of the biggest obstacles facing the Indians will be the defense of the Tigers. All four of Greenfield's victories have been shutouts and the opponents have only scored a total of 31 points in the other two games.
For the first time this season, Greenfield tailback Gary Barr slipped down into second place in rushing yardage. Barr has carried the ball 167 times for 642 yards.

Hillsboro's lineup offered some changes in the 24-8 loss to Adena last week. Don Marsh, who had been the starting quarterback all season, started at tight end and Tyler Woods drew the starting nod as signal caller. However, after three periods, Marsh was moved back to quarterback and he responded by tossing 17 passes and completing five in one period.
CIRCLEVILLE AT UNIOTO
Circleville lost its league opener to Greenfield, but the roundtowners have been tough to stop since that loss. Now 2-1 in the SCOL and 4-2 for the year, Circleville is fresh off a 14-12 win over Miami Trace.
The Tigers can not afford to take Unioto as lightly as Greenfield. Despite being 0-2 in the SCOL and 3-3 for the season, the Sheremans are big and have the capabilities of exploding on offense. Tiger running back Biff Bumgarner has been setting the league on fire with his running in the last two games. By compiling 380 yards in the last two games, Bumgarner now has 102 carries for 589 yards.

Unioto's offensive attack is equally distributed between junior Dan Anders and sophomore Bob Matson. Anders has 393 yards in 93 carries and Matson has carried the ball 62 times for 400 yards.
Unioto coach Mike Shoemaker is hoping the Tanks have rid themselves of all of their mistakes. In their 21-0 loss to Greenfield last week, Unioto lost seven of eight fumbles and had two pass interceptions.

Homecoming brings the Wolverines into town to play the Lions. Wehrle, a Class A school, is presently 1-5 for the season. The Lions, who are taking time out from defending their league crown, are 5-1 for the year and 3-0 in the SCOL.
Washington Court House could be without the services of sophomore tailback Leroy Wilson for tonight's game. Wilson, who injured his knee against Wilmington, has toted the ball 108 times for 303 yards. Should Wilson be unable to play, junior Randy Gardner will be filling in at tailback.
Thus far, the Lions, have been making a nervous wreck out of coach Maurice Pfeifer. Of this season's six games, three of the outcomes have been decided by two points and last week's victory was just by four points.

Akron St. Vincent nearly loses game

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A technicality almost cost Akron St. Vincent-St. Mary its perfect 1974 Ohio high school football record.

Ohio's No. 1 ranked Class AA power scored what appeared to be the winning touchdown with 10 seconds left last week against Cuyahoga Falls.

But the referee ruled the ball had not been whistled into play. So the clock was reset to 10 seconds.

Two plays later, halfback Paul Winters scored with three seconds to go for a 26-22 triumph, making the Akron power 6-0-0.

Around Ohio: Nelsonville York in Athens County has played five games, three of them scoreless ties with Trimble, Albany Alexander and Vincent Warren. The Buckeyes are 2-0-3.

Mount Vernon sophomore Vic Lindsey's first punt return: 85 yards for a touchdown in a 7-6 upset of Westerville ... Fullback Jeff Curry's 79-yard run was the longest in Cincinnati Moeller history, helping Moeller Coach Gerry Faust to his 100th coaching victory against Dayton Chaminade last week.

Willoughby South has the longest unbeaten streak in the Cleveland area, 18 games including a pair of ties ... Wauseon is already champion of the Northwest Ohio League with a 4-0-1 league record ... Montpelier's Lynn Oberlin is 20 yards shy of 3,000 career rushing yards.

Parma Valley Forge ended Parma Senior's unbeaten season last week, 40-22, and Valley Forge public address announcer Jim Riha was the unhappiest. Technical difficulties prevented Riha from telling the crowd of four extra points by his son, Steve.

Minerva's Jamie Morckel booted a 51-yard field goal against Carrollton ... Plain City Alder has won 18 games in a row.

Rodell Jackson, with 340 yards rushing, broke the Canton Timken one-game record of 255 set by Jon Ailing 19 years ago.

Frank Myers of Ottawa Glandorf has 1,125 ground yards in six games ... Mark Newell of Mapleton leads the Mansfield area scorers with 84 points after 30 last week against Norwalk St. Paul. The 36-0 St. Paul loss ended the

McKinnis has hopes with Browns

CLEVELAND (AP)—Cleveland running back Nugh McKinnis has a very simple explanation for his 7.4 average per carry rushing game with the Browns this season.

"The blocking I've been getting has been real good," he says. "I just get the ball and the holes open up for me. That's the way it happens."

McKinnis has had only 20 opportunities to carry the ball this season, but Sunday he will be called on to start in the Browns game against the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Coach Nick Skorich moved McKinnis into the fullback spot as a part of the general shakeup in the starting lineup. Skorich is hoping to bring the Browns back from a miserable 1-4 season record.

McKinnis said he prepared for the 1974 season with the thought of being able to win veteran Leroy Kelly's job, which Kelly vacated at the end of last season.

Norwalk school's record of 23 straight Firelands Conference triumphs.

John Ziegler of Warren Harding averaged 24.3 yards in 10 rushes last week against Alliance. Ziegler is within 120 yards of Paul Warfield's school rushing record of 1,158 yards in 1959.

It sounded like baseball in the Columbus area last week: St. Charles and Big Walnut both winning 3-0, Brookhaven 3-2, Marysville 6-0 and Bexley 7-0.

Dayton Jefferson now has the state's alltime victory streak of 45 games, beating National Trail, 59-0, last week. James Clark's first 100-yard rushing game for Jefferson was 268 yards, snapping the school mark.

Cowboys, Browns post easy victories

In junior high action at Miami Trace, the Cowboys and Browns continue to dominate the race. The Cowboys destroyed the Bengals 52-6 and the Rams were 36-6 victims of the Browns, Thursday evening.

With the victories, the Cowboys are now 4-0 and the Browns are 3-1. The Rams are presently 1-3, while the Bengals are winless in four outings.

Lions lose volleyball tilts

Washington's varsity volleyball team suffered its second defeat of the season, Thursday afternoon. The Lions travelled to Unioto, where they lost the first match 15-4 and were nailed 15-11 in the second game.

Teresa Pursell led the Lions with nine serves in the two games. Janet Davis had 12 set-ups.

The reserves fared slightly better in their contests. However, the outcome was still the same as the Sheremans won the best of three series. Washington lost the first game 15-9, won the second 15-7 and dropped the finale 15-7.

Top servers for the Lions were Terry Welch with 11 and Becky Wheat with nine. Sharon Redden was tops with eight set-ups.

Washington's varsity record is now 5-2, while the reserves are 4-3 for the year. The next scheduled game is slated at Hillsboro on Monday.

passes, scored 12 points and threw a touchdown pass in the Cowboys' win. His 75-yard return of a pass interception opened the scoring for in the first quarter. Brian Zurfance ran the conversion.

In the second quarter, Zurfance took a pitch out and ran 44 yards for the score. Mark Dunn accounted for the conversion on a pass from Grooms. Later in the period, Carl Riley hit paydirt on a one-yard run and Dunn caught a 66-yard touchdown pass from Grooms. Grooms also ran the conversion following Riley's touchdown.

Two of the Cowboys' touchdowns in the second half were scored by Zurfance on a six-yard run and a 75-yard run. Riley added the other score on a one-yard plunge and Grooms scored two of the conversions.

The Bengals' only touchdown was set up by a blocked punt. John St. Clair scored the touchdown on a five-yard run.

For the game, the Cowboys totaled six pass interceptions. Jack Penwell and Ron Dean were credited for outstanding defensive games.

Duerrell Neitz returned the opening kickoff 70 yards for a score and the tone of the game was set for the Browns. Bill Horney ran the conversion to give his team an 8-0 lead.

The Browns came up with two touchdowns in the second stanza. Quarterback Ed Forsythe found an open hole and galloped 87 yards for the score. Forsythe later fired a six-yard scoring pass to Mike Eddlemon and Neitz ran the conversion.

The Browns scored a touchdown in each of the two remaining periods. Glen Cobb crossed the goal line on a return of a 33-yard pass interception and Eddlemon ran the conversion in the third frame. In the fourth period, Neitz broke loose for a 47-yard romp.

The Rams' only score of the game came in the final quarter. Mike Cline picked up a fumble and returned it 70 yards.

Oakland captures third title

By KEN RAPPAPORT
AP Sports Writer

OAKLAND (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers brought out the best in the Oakland A's. As it turned out, the best was good enough to win the 1974 World Series.

"They needed a little humility," said Sal Bando, and the A's gave it to them by whipping the Dodgers 3-2 Thursday night to win their third straight world title, this one in five uneasy games.

The season ended officially when Oakland relief star Rollie Fingers collared pinch-hitter Von Joshua's bleeding grounder and hopped in joy as he threw out the runner.

Actually, the Dodgers were dead but didn't know it when they popped off against the A's before this bizarre Series started.

They called the A's doubtful champions, even though they had won two straight baseball titles.

"After they beat Pittsburgh in the (National League) playoffs, the Dodgers said they weren't impressed by us," said Joe Rudi, who hit the winning home run Thursday night. "Well, they have all winter to think about it."

Reggie Jackson, the most emotional of all the dynamic A's, wouldn't gloat over the obviously sweet victory. But you got some idea how he felt when he announced: "We're the champs ... I don't have to say anything more."

What the Dodgers learned from the 1974 World Series is that you don't give the A's a break and expect to get away with it.

In the first game at Los Angeles, the Dodgers outthrew the A's 11-6, but the A's outscored the Dodgers 3-2. Jackson homered for the A's, and they got their winning runs on a squeeze bunt by Bert Campaneris and an error by Dodger third baseman Ron Cey. Fingers throttled the Dodgers with some great relief pitching before 25-game winner Jim "Catfish" Hunter came in to get the last out.

Another 3-2 score resulted in the second game at Los Angeles, but this time the Dodgers were the winners. Joe Ferguson hit a two-run homer for the National League champions and strongman Mike Marshall snuffed out a ninth-inning Oakland rally.

After the A's scored two runs on Joe Rudi's base hit in the ninth inning, sprinter Herb Washington ran for Rudi but was picked off first base by Marshall in the most embarrassing play of the Series for Oakland.

It was a big mistake, Washington admitted, but the last one for the world champions.

Back in the comfort of their own ballpark, the A's took a typical 3-2 decision in game No. 3. The A's scored two unearned runs after Ferguson, moved from right field to catcher, fumbled Jackson's 15-foot bouncer in front of the plate. Bill Buckner and Willie Crawford hit home runs for the Dodgers, but they came too late.

The omnipresent Fingers saved the victory for Hunter. As you might expect, the A's were outthrew by the Dodgers 7-5 but Oakland still found a way to win.

Pitcher Ken Holtzman, who hits as well as he pitches in World Series play, unloaded a home run in Oakland's 5-2 victory in game No. 4.

Jim Holt, hitless in 25 pinchhitting appearances during the regular season, delivered a two-run single to key a four-run sixth inning that broke the game open. The tireless Fingers bailed out an Oakland starter once more.

That set the stage for Thursday night. Movie star Rock Hudson threw out the first ball — and the A's picked up the same, tired script.

"We never win them easily," said Oakland second baseman Dick Green, the defensive star of the Series.

Vida Blue, still looking for his first World Series victory, was given an early lead but couldn't hold it. A Dodger error set up Sal Bando's sacrifice fly in the first inning, then Ray Fosse hit a mistake pitch from Dodger ace Don Sutton into the left field seats for a 2-0 Oakland lead.

It stayed that way until the sixth, when the Dodgers tied the game with the help of their two best run-producers of 1974. Jimmy Wynn hit a sacrifice fly and Steve Garvey singled in the second run and the Dodgers pulled even with the A's at 2-2.

This quieted the capacity crowd of 49,347 fans at the Oakland Coliseum for a while — but they didn't stay that way for very long.

In the next inning, Rudi parked an inside fastball from Marshall into the left field seats. The massive electronic sign in left field lit up "JOE" in 90-foot letters, green and gold A's pennants sprouted from the concrete stands and, as the crowd noise peaked, fireworks went off.

The dramatic home run came after a game delay of six minutes. A fan had thrown a bottle on the field and Wynn, the Dodgers' center fielder, collected it and threw it to the sidelines with disdain. The Dodgers had a conference with the umpires about the possibility of pulling their players off the field, but decided that the situation was not quite that critical.

By the time Marshall got around to throwing a pitch, Rudi was ready for him.

"I hit an inside fastball which, believe it or not, I sort of expected," the Oakland star said.

Then along came Fingers. "I was told that if we got the lead, I'd be in the game," said Fingers.

He came in, all right, but wasn't his usual self. This was evident when he gave up a hard single to Buckner leading off the eighth inning.

The ball got through center fielder Bill North and Buckner attempted to make third on the error — but was nailed on a beauty of a relay throw from Jackson to Green to Bando.

Fingers walked the dangerous Wynn but got out of the inning by getting Garvey and Joe Ferguson on fly balls.

The great relief pitcher then got the Dodgers 1-2-3 in the ninth and the A's became the first team in baseball history since the New York Yankees to win three straight World Series. The Yanks won five straight at one point and four at another.

Teenage millionaire to make court debut

Moses Malone, pro basketball's first teen-age millionaire, makes his heralded debut tonight when the American Basketball Association launches its eighth season.

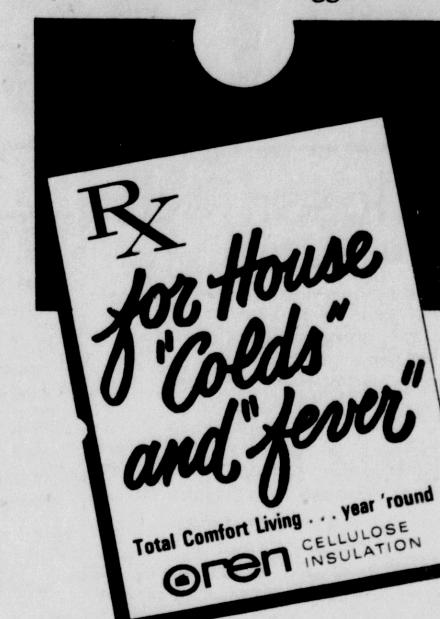

The remarkable 19-year-old Malone — who jumped from Petersburg, Va., High School right into the pros, signing a five-year contract estimated at more than $3 million with the Utah Stars — will play his first ABA game against the league's defending champions, the New York Nets.

In other ABA openers tonight, the new Spirits of St. Louis will entertain the Memphis Sounds, San Antonio will be at Indiana, and Denver at Kentucky.

The 6-foot-11 Malone, expected to be brought along slowly by Bucky Buckwalter, the Stars' new coach, speeded up the timetable with some outstanding play during the exhibition campaign, and might start against the Nets.

"He's really big and he figures to be one of the best rebounders in the league before long," said Rod Thorn, the Nets assistant coach and chief scout after watching Malone in preseason action. "He reminds me a lot of our Larry Kenon, he's so active under the boards, only he's a few inches bigger."

MCCULLOCH

Fingers chosen MVP

by HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

OAKLAND (AP) — If you were casting a 1930s movie serial, Rollie Fingers and his carefully cultivated handlebar moustache would be perfect for the villain.

And if you were casting a World Series for the Oakland A's, the man you would want warming up in the bullpen is Fingers, who has a way of showing up on the mound when the A's are about to win World championships.

The sinister looking righthander earned an automobile as Most Valuable Player in the World Series, winning one game, saving two others, and appearing in all four Oakland victories over Los Angeles. It is no coincidence that the only game Fingers didn't pitch in was the one the Dodgers won.

The world championship was the third straight for the A's. They won in seven games in 1972, seven in 1973 and five in 1974. That's 19 baseball games. In 16 of them, Fingers has come out of the bullpen.

There is just so much rubber in any pitcher's arm and Fingers admitted that the constant work was beginning to take its toll as he worked against the Dodgers in the final two innings of Thursday night's championship-clinching game.

"I was getting tired," he said. "The back of my arm hurt so I couldn't get a breaking ball over. I only could get my fast ball over."

In the eighth inning, Fingers tried a breaking ball on Dodgers' slugger Joe Ferguson, who sent the ball soaring towards the left field seats — but well foul. "He hit the pitch nine million miles," said Fingers. "I threw it away after that."

Before the game, A's pitching coach Wes Stock sidled up to Fingers and asked how his arm felt after two straight days of work. "I told him I had a few innings in it," said the reliever. That was all Stock and Manager

Alvin Dark needed to hear. With the score tied at 2-2 and the game moving into the late innings, Stock told Fingers to get ready. "He told me that I'd be pitching if we scored one run," said Fingers.

Sure enough, the A's got that run on a first-pitch homer by Joe Rudi against Dodgers' bullpen ace Mike Marshall in the bottom of the seventh. That was the signal for Fingers to start warming up.

After Ferguson's foul drive in the eighth, Fingers sailed into the ninth, needing only three more outs to nail down the World championship. He got them in a hurry.

Ron Cey flied deep to Reggie Jackson in right field. Then pinch-hitter Willie Crawford popped up. That brought up Von Joshua, the Dodgers' last hope.

Fingers overpowered the Dodger pinch-hitter and Joshua tapped meekly back to the mound. Fingers gloved the ball and half-ran, half-hopped his way toward first base before finally tossing to Gene Tenace for the final out.

"I just wanted to make a good throw to Gene at the end," he said, "but I was hopping up and down. Boy was I happy."

Creamer leads Panther win

With David Creamer's four touchdowns leading the way, Miami Trace's freshman team captured its sixth victory without a defeat in downing Wilmington 40-8, Thursday evening.

Creamer opened the scoring in the first period with a eight-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Shane Riley.

In the second stanza, the Panther frosh came up with 22 points. The first touchdown of the frame came on an eight-yard run by Creamer and David Glass ran the conversion. Later in the period, Glass crossed the goal line on a 14-yard burst and he again scored the conversion. The final touchdown before halftime came on a 71-yard run by Dennis Combs.

Both touchdowns in the second half were scored by Creamer. In the third quarter, he scored from three yards away and in the final quarter, he hit paydirt on a 43-yard return of a pass interception.

Combs and Scott Martin led the defensive effort, which limited Wilmington to a total of 43 yards. For the third consecutive game, Combs blocked a punt.

Offensively, coach Sonny Walters praised the blocking performances of Shawn Riley, Keith Downing and John Burr. He also singled out quarterbacks Shane Riley and Craig DeMent for good games.

The Nance auto incurred moderate damage, while the Stires car was severely damaged. Ms. Stires was cited by sheriff's deputies for failure to maintain an assured clear distance ahead.

SHERIFF'S deputies also reported a hit-skip accident which damaged three rods of fence owned by Alfred Hagler, 5162 Inskeep Rd.

The fence, located on the Bloomingburg-New Holland Road, was damaged sometime Sunday.

Tavern burglary probed by police

Washington C.H. police reported a breaking and entering incident at Bert's Bar, 703 Delaware St., sometime between 2 a.m. and 8 a.m. Thursday.

The coin boxes on the juke box and pool table had been forced open and the money removed and an attempt to rifle the cigarette machine was made. One dollar was stolen from a cigar box in a cabinet and the thieves also removed some bags of potato chips and peanuts from the sales rack.

The vending machines were owned by Ace Vending Machine Co., Columbus. Police are continuing their investigation.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported a vandalism and a personal injury.

Four tires on a gravity bed bean wagon owned by Richard Hughes, Jenks Road, were slashed sometime between Saturday night and Sunday, sheriff's deputies reported.

Probe slaying at Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati police today continued their investigation into the shooting death of a nursing home director who was apparently abducted from near his suburban home and found fatally wounded in a wooded area.

Julius Graber, 65, was shot twice in the head and died less than an hour after police found his body late Wednesday night near Spring Grove Cemetery.

Police said they are investigating the possibility a man and woman were involved in the abduction-robbery killing.

Graber, administrator of Glen Manor Home for Jewish Aged, had just let his wife out of the car at their apartment complex and was parking when apparently confronted, according to authorities.

His car was found abandoned in a garage in Avondale.

POLICE
FRIDAY — Ricky R. Bryan, 18, of 721 Eastern Ave., private warrant for assault.

PATROL
For speeding:
THURSDAY — John R. Drauer, 33, Cincinnati; James V. Ward, 40, Indianapolis, Ind.; Ronald L. Warnock, 18, Jeffersonville.

Sheriff's deputies reported his carburetor backfired and the flames flashed over the upper part of his body. Raypole was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital by Morrow's ambulance service, where he was treated and released.

The incident happened at his residence.

Fire damage set at $500

A short in a ceiling light fixture created a fire at 3446 CCC-Highway-NE, at 8:20 a.m. Friday, Washington C.H. firemen reported.

Lorene Penwell, occupant of the aforementioned residence owned by Charles Graves, 3404 CCC-Highway-NE, came home to find her house filled with smoke and called the Fire Department.

Firemen extinguished the fire with water and reported nearly $500 damage to the home. The fire had burned upwards from the kitchen light fixture, into the attic area, but the fiberglass insulation in the attic kept the fire from spreading to the roof. No one was injured.

Firemen also reported a run at 4:19 p.m. Thursday. They were summoned to the Barnhart Bulk Plant at 900 Armbrust Ave., to prevent 75 gallons of spilled gasoline from igniting.

Firemen did this by diluting the gas with water and covering it with 20 gallons of foam.

2 murder trials on

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The separate trials of two men charged in the shooting death of a Cincinnati patrolman were to resume today with one defendant attempting to have his counsel replaced.

On trial are Roland Reaves, 23, and Ricardo Woods, 24, charged with the July 17 murder of Patrolman David Cole.

Reaves, who attempted to fire his court-appointed lawyers Sept. 30 but had the bid refused by Judge Frank M. Gusweiler, angrily demanded that his sister "get me a lawyer" during proceedings Thursday.

Reaves is facing a trial by jury, while Woods sought trial by a three-judge panel.
